The Irish Times.

MONDAY, AUGUST 1, 1921.

Saturday and Sunday brought no new development in the Irish peace movement.—(P. 3.)

On being informed by Mr. Serjeant Hanna that the prisoners John J. Egan and Patrick Higgins would be immediately released, the Master of the Rolls on Saturday put a stay of execution on the writs of attachment issued against General Macready, Major-General Strickland, and Brigadier-General Cameron.—(P. 3.)

A conference of members of the Irish Branch of the National Union of Railwaymen was held in Dublin yesterday.—(P. 3.)

The Belfast Assizes concluded on Saturday. A number of prisoners were sentenced for riot and shooting with intent.—(P. 3.)

At a meeting of the Ulster ex-Service Men's Association on Saturday it was agreed that the Association should be turned into a Territorial Force.—(P. 3.)

The King and Queen and other members of the Royal Family arrived at Cowes on Saturday for yachting week.—(P. 2.)

An agreement has been reached between Great Britain and France regarding Upper Silesia which is officially declared to be entirely satisfactory to both countries.—(P. 3.)

Speaking at Thame on Saturday, Mr. Lloyd George said that there had been some plain speaking between Great Britain and France; but the preliminary difficulties had been overcome, and the Allies would meet in a few days to arrange a settlement of the matter in dispute.—(P. 3.)

A resolution to boycott the visit of the Prince of Wales was carried at the meeting in Bombay of the All-India Congress Committee.—(P. 3.)

The latest news from New York is to the effect that Mr. Wickham Steed, Editor of The Times, and not Lord Northcliffe, gave an interview to the New York Times.—(P. 3.)

What Silesia Means.

Once more Britain and France have accommodated their differences concerning Upper Silesia. We must hope devoutly that their latest disagreement is the last; for it provoked dangerously strong language on both sides. A week ago France was demanding, and Britain was opposing, the immediate despatch of troops to the plebiscite area. A compromise was reached by which the Supreme Council was to meet on the 4th August and the question of reinforcements was left in suspense. Within three days, however, France insisted again on the despatch of troops in terms which almost hinted at a possible breach of the Entente. Our Government replied in a Note of such candour as was permissible only between friends—or enemies. It expressed surprise at France's "unusual and apparently unfriendly tone" and declared Britain's firm allegiance to the principles and provisions of the Treaty of Versailles. At this juncture, it would seem, both Governments began to realise whither they were drifting. The next step was an overture from France. She suggested that each should make a slight concession to the other. On the one hand, France would not require the instant despatch of troops. On the other, Britain was asked to join with her in inviting Germany to "make preparations" for the passage of Allied troops, on the understanding that the question of reinforcements should be discussed at the first meeting of the Supreme Council. On Saturday evening our Ambassador informed M. Briand that Britain "readily agreed" to these proposals. Thus the faces of both Governments have been saved. Germany will be instructed to make arrangements for the passage of Allied troops "which the situation in Upper Silesia may render necessary at any moment." The "moment" is unlikely to arrive before the Supreme Council meets on Thursday.

Mr. Lloyd George's relief was expressed in his speech on Saturday. He thinks that Britain and France are "on the high road to an understanding" and hopes that the question of Upper Silesia will be settled without further delay. The peace of the world demands such settlement; but the problem must be approached with a full appreciation of its dangers and difficulties. It will not be solved by any of the ingenious, but temporary, compromises in which both Mr. Lloyd George and M. Briand are extraordinarily skilful. The unpleasant truth is that hitherto British and French aims in Upper Silesia have been different and divergent. Britain wants to do equal justice between Poland and Germany—to give to either country its exact due under the Treaty of Versailles. France wants to befriend Poland and, in the process, to weaken Germany. She wants to give to Poland industrial districts which the plebiscite gave to Germany because, for two perfectly intelligible reasons, she wants Poland to be a strong and prosperous country. One of these reasons is her future trade with Poland; the other is the creation of a buffer State between Germany and Russia. France is anxious, therefore, that the Supreme Council shall not make a decision favourable to Germany and hostile to Poland. To this end she has pursued a policy of delay. The plebiscite was taken in March, and the fact that, after four months, no progress towards settlement has been made is, beyond any doubt, the result of difficulties raised by France. We can understand the French point of view, and, as Mr. Lloyd George said on Saturday, can have much sympathy with it. France has made vast sacrifices; unlike Britain, she has no sense of insular security; she believes in the possible—even probable—revival of German militarism. The Polish barrier would be one of her main defences in another war.

To-day France has the largest army in Europe and Poland has the second largest, while the British Army has been reduced ruthlessly since 1919. Here is physical demonstration of the radical difference between the world policies of France and Britain. M. Briand is resolved to be ready for another war. The British Prime Minister thinks that another war, with its terrifically amplified and improved machinery of destruction, would be the end of all things and, therefore, must not be allowed to happen. His policy is Britain's policy and is also the policy of the United States of America. Britons and Americans believe that the best guarantee against the inconceivable horrors of another war will be found in a world peace based on a series of international alliances. They do not believe that German industry and intellect can be "kept under" by weight of arms, and they argue that a Germany with a legitimate grievance is a greater danger to the peace of Europe than a Germany without such a grievance. In a word, Britain declares for security through agreement and France—so far, at least, as Upper Silesia is concerned—declares for security through force. The wisest of living men would not dare to dogmatise on this subject. Time alone will tell whether Anglo-Saxon idealism or Latin materialism has the saner conception of the future course of human affairs. It is manifest, however, that here we have a conflict of national views which the most brilliant compromises cannot settle. If the Entente is to survive as an instrument of peace, Britain and France must reach a working agreement based on fundamental principles of thought and action. That, and nothing less vital, is the issue involved in the problem of Upper Silesia.

Industrial Suicide.

It has been suggested that the Cunard Company may send the Mauretania to France or Belgium for repairs. For the last eight months the British joiners have been on strike, and the point has been reached where it is virtually impossible to keep the yards open without them. The strike has cost the Amalgamated Society of Woodworkers nearly £500,000 in out-of-work pay. A week ago the masters met the workers' executive at a conference. Each side approached the problem in the spirit of compromise and terms which pleased both were arranged. The executive, however, did not possess plenary powers, and when it submitted the proposals to the men they were rejected with scorn. Thus the situation is exactly as it was eight months ago. The strike is a futile effort to defeat an elementary law of economics—that the worker's wages must fluctuate in accordance with the prosperity of the particular industry in which he is engaged. In April, 1920, the shipbuilders agreed that their joiners should receive twelve shillings a week more than the men engaged in the building trade. Everything went smoothly for six months; but then the shipbuilding boom ended suddenly, and the masters were forced to curtail their expenses. They gave three months' notice that the wages would be reduced by twelve shillings in the middle of December. The men declared by an overwhelming majority that their bonus must not be touched, and some ten thousand of them laid down their tools. The results of the strike have been deplorable. The shipbuilding industry has been strangled by a section of its own workers at a time when orders were few; and work that might have helped to tide it over the period of depression has gone to its competitors. Huge sums have been paid by British shipowners to French and Belgian firms for repairs to vessels. What do the joiners expect to gain by emulating the man who killed the golden goose? It is to be hoped that, even at the eleventh hour, they will see the folly of their policy. If they look abroad, they will see that the American, French, and Belgian joiners have accepted economic scales of wages, and that in Germany strikes and even limited hours of labour are unknown. For their own sake they should follow the German example. Incidentally, the strike is a warning to the country of the far-reaching effects of socialistic legislation. If the Government had not embarked upon its housing scheme, the building trade would not have been invested with a spurious prosperity, and the joiners would not have been tempted to demand higher wages. This is a fact which the House of Commons should note.

Nipped in the Bud.

A romantic story of political intrigue has just been unfolded in the London Law Courts. Early in the present year warning reached the Government that two Venezuelan generals had arrived in Europe on a secret mission and that their movements should be watched closely. Sir Basil Thompson, the Chief of Scotland Yard, entrusted the task to two of his smartest assistants, and in due course they reported that the men had landed in England. For some days the visitors spent their time in seeing the sights of London, and there was nothing to indicate that they were not genuine tourists. Eventually, however, one of the detectives discovered that they had entered into negotiations for the purchase of an old gunboat called The Harrier and had instructed an agent to buy large quantities of arms and ammunition. Their plans were allowed to develop, but every movement was noted. Towards the end of February Sir Basil Thompson decided that the time was ripe for intervention and he called upon General Carabano. The general was frankness personified. He admitted that he and his companion—General Martinez—were engaged in a conspiracy to overthrow the Government of Venezuela, and that they had secured arms and refitted The Harrier with that object. He admitted also that certain Englishmen had been persuaded to finance the venture in the hope of benefiting themselves. One person had advanced £30,000 on the understanding that he should be given certain rights to exploit the country's oil deposits. This information was more than sufficient to enable the British Government to act. An unsympathetic judge has declared that The Harrier must be forfeited to the Crown because she has violated the Foreign Enlistment Act of 1870. Thus what promised to be a spirited revolution has been nipped in the bud.

Rules of Sport.

Mr. Tennyson's mistake in the recent Test match has given the "cricket lawyers" of England a fruitful topic for discussion. They profess to be amazed that the captain of the English team should have displayed such a profound ignorance of the laws of the game, and suggest that the time has come when every player must be required to pass an examination in the rules and regulations before he is permitted to take the field. We venture to assert that their suggestion will not find much support, and that, even now, when the law has been expounded in nearly every newspaper, not one player in a hundred can explain the precise circumstances in which an innings can be declared. It would be more difficult for the average cricketer to say off-hand when drinks may be sent on the field or to give the exact limitations in weight or size of bats, balls, and bails. Everybody knows that there are rules which govern these matters; but very few persons take the trouble to learn them, and we doubt whether the average player's ignorance of them is a handicap. The person who appeals constantly to a book of rules is a nuisance to his fellows at any game. He is inclined to enforce the law too strictly and to allow no infringement, however trivial, to pass. Rules are excellent things, but it is easy to overwork them. The best referee at Rugby football is the man who makes the least use of his whistle.

A BRIGHTER OUTLOOK.

HOME SECRETARY ON THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

The following letter from Mr. Edward Shortt, Home Secretary, was read at a Liberal garden party at Jesmond Dene, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on Saturday afternoon:—

MY DEAR LAMBERT,—I very much regret that I now find it will be quite impossible for me to be with you in Jesmond Dene on Saturday next, owing to an important conference. I regret this all the more because I feel it would have been possible for me to give a brighter account of our general outlook than I could have done some months ago. It is too soon to speak with any complete confidence with regard to Ireland, but I can at least say this, and that with a full inside knowledge, that I am more hopeful of a broad and generous settlement of the Irish question than I have ever been. If we do settle the Irish question it will be largely due to the fact that we are a Coalition Government, and that upon this question the country, I sincerely believe, is as substantially united as it was on the war.

There are many other questions of vital importance which confront us. But I look forward with hope to the results of a conference at Washington, and I have every trust that we shall be able to agree with other nations on the question of disarmament and of the various problems that confront us in the Pacific. I could also have said with truth that in the Middle East and the East things were settling down to a far greater extent than appears upon the surface. I wonder if there are still left many men or women who do not appreciate how completely the war has changed everything. We have only to read Hansard of May and June, 1914, to see how totally different were party views and party divisions at that time from those which exist to-day. We are still in a state of reconstruction, happily having made much farther progress than most of us believed possible this time last year, but the need for national unity is as great to-day as ever it was. I congratulate you all in Newcastle upon the splendid organisation you have created, and so long as you all work together as you are doing we can be quite certain that the great spirit of Liberalism will inspire all of our social and political work and help to make the nation what we all so ardently desire it to be. Please give my kindest remembrances to all my friends and express my very sincere regret and disappointment that I cannot be with them.—Yours very sincerely,

(Signed) EDWARD SHORTT.

Councillor Arthur W. Lambert, M.C.

DUBLIN BANK ROBBERIES.

FIVE MEN ARRESTED AT HOWTH.

Five men who were sleeping in a tent on the Hill of Howth on Saturday morning were arrested by Dublin detectives, who arrived between 5.30 and 6 o'clock and surrounded them. Detective Sergeants Killeen, Molloy, Mahon, and Donnelly, and Detective Officers Murphy, Gordon, Brimston, and Sheerin made the arrests and brought the men to the Bridewell, in Dublin.

Later in the morning the five men were charged in the Southern Police Court before Sir Ernest Swifte, K.C., with having conspired, confederated, and agreed to rob by force and violence whilst armed with revolvers the Ulster Bank, Lower Baggot street, on the 11th July, and did there and then rob the bank of £316 19s. by holding up the officials with revolvers. They were also charged with having entered the premises of the Ulster Bank in Ranelagh on the same day and taken £40 odd. The names and addresses of the prisoners were given as Joseph Stoole, 51 Merchant's road, East Wall; Harry Dowling, 28 Stafford street; Patrick Lawlor, 20 Lower Liffey street; Ernest Harper, 14 Merchant's road, East Wall; and James Shaw, 2 Dublin street, Baldoyle.

Detective Sergeant Killeen stated that he, with other officers, found the prisoners asleep that morning in a camp on Howth Hill. Lawlor had a revolver by the side of his bed. Sergeant Molloy found another revolver in Dowling's bed and eight rounds of ammunition. They found some money and papers in the camp. They were told the charges that were against them, and that they would be brought to Dublin for identification. They were brought to the Bridewell in Dublin, and were placed among a number of others. Harper was then identified as one of the men who entered the bank in Baggot street, and Stoole was identified as the man who was seen leaving the bank with the money. They were all charged, and when the charge was read over to them they were cautioned. Lawlor said: "We were not there. We were in Malahide—myself and Harper and Dowling." Dowling contradicted him and said: "I was not with him." Stoole said: "I was in Howth. They left me clearing up the camp." Shaw said: "I was at home that day at Baldoyle." Harper said: "None of us had any previous intercourse with Shaw prior to the truce, because he was not one of us."

The prisoners were remanded till Thursday.

A SIXTH ARREST.

A sixth arrest was made on Saturday night in the course of the police and detective investigation of recent bank robberies in Dublin. Sergeant Molloy secured a young man who was on his way to a camp at Howth early in the night, and brought him to Dublin under arrest.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO SCOTTISH SHEPHERD.

Under extraordinary circumstances a shepherd, named George Thomson, belonging to Jedburgh, lost his life. Thomson's dog returning home without him, a search was instituted, his body being found in a pool of blood in a plantation. Timber lay scattered about, and an examination showed that he had fallen on the sharp point of a piece of wood, which pierced his spine.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference—The depression off North-Western Scotland is almost stationary. Smaller secondary depressions, passing over the British Isles, will cause cloud and rain at times in the west and north. Fairer weather will prevail in the south and south-east.

Ireland—Moderate or fresh winds between south and south-east; dull; some rain and coastal fog; visibility otherwise fair; moderate temperature.

Dixon and Hempenstall, Barometers, 12 Suffolk street, Dublin.—(Advt.)

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The Northcliffe interview mystery grows more acute. It now seems certain that Lord Northcliffe did not give the interview, and consequently cannot be blamed for the language used in it; but it seems just as certain that Mr. Wickham Steed, the Editor of The Times, did give an interview. He denies, however, that he made the direct statements attributed to him; nor did he impute certain remarks to the King and the Prime Minister. He also describes the talk as an informal one. The next step rests with the Editor of the New York Times, though most people will agree that the sooner the whole matter is dropped the better it will be. At the same time, it has to be remembered that the New York Times has a great reputation for accuracy, and it is quite possible that its directors will not be content to let the matter drop very easily.

London has been favoured with glorious weather both yesterday and to-day. The departures for the country and seaside yesterday were extraordinary, and it is estimated that no fewer than 100,000 people left London by train for various places. The record was broken at several of the railway stations, and another rush took place to-day. Strange stories are coming from the nearer health resorts, describing how people arrived to find no room available and were compelled to sleep out of doors or in public shelters. A feature of yesterday was the steady stream of aeroplanes flying across Kent on the way to the Continent. When everybody possible had been taken there were enough would-be passengers to fill another twenty aeroplanes.

The House of Commons will not share in the Bank Holiday to-morrow, for a strenuous day's work has been prepared for it by the Government. The House will meet at the usual hour, and a very long list of questions appears on the Order Paper for answers. The main business will be the penultimate day of the report stage of the Railways Bill, when the guillotine will fall on Part I. at 7.30 and on Part II. at 11 o'clock. The financial resolution concerning the Irish Railways Bill is down for consideration after 11 o'clock, but it is uncertain whether it will be taken. It is still unknown whether the Government have yet come to terms with the Labour members opposing it.

A certain number of members of the House of Lords are very resentful at having important Bills thrust upon them at a late date in the session with the intimation that the Government expect them to be passed before Parliament is prorogued. These Peers have tabled a motion, which will be discussed on Tuesday, protesting against this action, and declining to proceed until the end of October with any Bills not now before the House of Lords, with the exception of the Railways Bill. There will be a rather keen debate on the motion, but it is extremely unlikely that it will be pressed by its promoters, Lord Crewe and Lord Salisbury. They would certainly be defeated on a division, for a special whip has been sent to the Peers supporting the Coalition to attend the sitting.

Once again there is talk of superseding Mr. Asquith as leader of the smallest party, with the exception of the Nationalists, in the House of Commons. The "Wee Frees" are said to be dissatisfied with his lethargic leadership, and would fain replace him by somebody likely to put more life into their small party and lost cause. Once again Mr. Reginald McKenna is suggested, but it is scarcely likely that an astute business man like the Chairman of the London City and Midland Bank will sacrifice a great position in the City to lead a small and rather discredited party towards the end of a Parliament. Mr. Asquith, too, is not so easily disposed of, for some time ago a rather similar effort was made, but he won easily.

Colonel Sir Alexander Sprot is to ask the Prime Minister to-morrow if a reply has been received from Ireland as regards the terms of settlement suggested by the Government, and if he is prepared to make a statement as to these terms.

The presentation from members of the House of Commons to Sir James and Lady Craig will be made at the House of Commons at five o'clock in Committee Room 14. Mr. Chamberlain will preside, and he will be supported by Lord Birkenhead. The gift consists of a plain, solid silver twenty-four inch two-handled Queen Anne pattern-shaped tray, engraved with the following inscription:—"To Colonel Sir James Craig, Bart., D.L., J.P., M.P., lately Parliamentary and Financial Secretary to the Admiralty, now first Prime Minister of Ulster, a loyal colleague, a wise counsellor, a faithful friend. Those who knew him in both Houses of Parliament bid him God-speed." The gift to Lady Craig is a plain, solid silver writing service.

We are threatened with strikes in the building trade and in the beer trade. The leaders of the building trade unions say that a position of some gravity has come about, since the employers threaten a lock-out if the men will not agree with the suggestions for speeding up the employment of ex-Service men in the trade. A bitter struggle is feared should wiser counsels not prevail. In the beer trade the workers object strongly to the Licensing Bill, stating that it is time that all restrictions were removed. If these workers should go on strike, it would bring about a curious situation, for the licensed houses would be without beer in a few days.

It seems likely, however, that the Licensing Bill will soon become law, and the rapid passage of the Bill through its Committee stage reflects great credit upon Sir J. Baird, who is Parliamentary Under-Secretary to the Home Office. Some of the amendments might easily have upset the Bill altogether, but the careful management of Sir J. Baird brought it into a safe harbour. When the Bill comes before the House of Commons he will still have much to do with the measure, for it is certain that attempts will be made at further amendment.

Mr. Bowerman, one of the members of the Labour Party, will to-morrow ask the Home Secretary whether the restrictions upon the sale of cigars and cigarettes in licensed houses after 8 o'clock p.m. is still operative, and, if so, whether he will consider the desirability of removing such restrictions.

An interesting pilgrimage is to take place to-morrow, when many thousands of people intend to journey to the Mendip Hills, where the writer of "Rock of Ages" is said to have conceived the hymn known throughout the English-speaking world. There will be a massed band with a big choir, and addresses are to be given by the Bishop of Michigan and others. Religious services are to be held throughout the day. Railway and motor excursions are being arranged for the occasion from many centres for this modern pilgrimage.

There has been much talk about the Socialist and Bolshevist Sunday schools now being held in many centres in the country, and on Tuesday Sir William Davison will ask Dr. Fisher whether any school buildings in London or the provinces which are in receipt of a maintenance grant from public funds are used for such schools, and whether he is aware of the blasphemous and anti-religious teaching which is given in many of them.

A TERRIBLE DISCOVERY.

A boy, aged five, was found dead, with his throat cut, in a house in Sash street, Stafford, early yesterday morning, and three other children, aged eleven, nine, and seven, respectively, were found seriously injured, and suffering from wounds in the throat. The injured children were taken to the infirmary. The seven-year-old child, a girl, is stated to be in a precarious condition, but the two others are expected to recover. A man is reported to have given himself up to the police in connection with the affair.

COWES WEEK.

ARRIVAL OF THE KING AND QUEEN.

BIG GATHERING OF SOCIETY PEOPLE.

The King, the Queen, Princess Mary, the Duke of York, and the Duke of Connaught arrived at Cowes on Saturday afternoon for the yachting week.

Vice-Admiral Niblack, of the United States Navy, is there in command of his flagship, the Utah. The festival is being attended by a very large and aristocratic gathering, and from a yachting and social standpoint it promises to be a great success.

The Queen and Princess Mary visited Osborne Convalescent Home for Officers. The Duke of Connaught called on Princess Beatrice. The King entertained a party to dinner on the Royal yacht. The American yachtsmen were entertained to dinner on Saturday night by the Royal London Yacht Squadron. Yesterday morning the weather was dull and threatening, but towards midday there was a great improvement, and the afternoon and evening were fine, with a freshening breeze. The King, as is his custom, was early astir. He and the Queen and the other Royalties attended Divine Service on the Victoria and Albert. During the forenoon Vice-Admiral Niblack, of the United States Navy, paid an official visit to His Majesty, which the King returned by going aboard the Utah.

COWES VISITED.

In the afternoon Their Majesties, who were accompanied by the Duke of Connaught and the Marquis D'Hautpoul, entered the Royal pinnace and proceeded to Trinity Pier, East Cowes. The little craft threaded its way through the scores of boats, and its occupants were respectfully greeted by the yachtsmen and pleasure seekers afloat. Their Majesties motored to Osborne House, and visited the private apartments which were occupied by the late Queen Victoria and the State rooms. They went through the Officers' Convalescent Home at Osborne, and conversed with the men who are still invalided. On the terrace a number of officers on a parade were inspected by the King, who shook hands with all of them. Amongst those at the Home are invalided officers who have been serving in Ireland.

Their Majesties returned at about four o'clock. Afterwards they motored to Swiss Cottage, Osborne, where they had tea, returning early in the evening to the Royal yacht. The King and Queen looked in the best of health. His Majesty was in yachting costume, and the Queen wore a cream-coloured dress and dark green toque. Princess Mary and the Duke of York came ashore, and stayed for a time with Sir Godfrey Baring at Nubia House.

A FASHIONABLE GATHERING.

There was a big congregation at Trinity Church, which is the church of the Royal Yacht Squadron, at the Morning Service. The Squadron lawn was filled throughout the afternoon and evening with a very large muster of society people. Outside the railings of the aristocratic enclosure holiday folk gathered in strong force to watch the yachtsmen and their ladies go to and from the little landing jetty to the yachts in the roadstead. There was a great addition to the gathering of yachts yesterday, as many had arrived overnight.

Amongst those on shore and on the lawns were the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, the Duke of Leeds, the Earl of Iveagh, the Marquis of Ailsa, the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, the Earl of Albemarle, Viscount Falkland, Sir C. Cust, Sir William Portal, General Seely, Sir Godfrey Baring, Major the Hon. Sir J. Ward, Sir William Buckley, Sir Ralph Gore, Sir Wyndham Murray, and a good many American officers from the warships.

United States bluejackets filled the little town of Cowes, and soon struck up a cordial friendship with the feminine portion of its inhabitants. They also took advantage of the opportunity to go to different places of interest in the island.

RACING PROSPECTS.

Racing commences to-day under the flag of the London Royal Yacht Squadron. The entries embrace some of the finest racers at Cowes, including the Britannia. The second race for the British-American Cup, for the six-metre international class, also takes place today. The weather outlook is favourable.

WEST KENT WAR MEMORIAL UNVEILED.

Upwards of six thousand officers and men of the West Kent Regiment were killed in the late war, and they are commemorated by a handsome cenotaph, which has been placed in the Museum Gardens at Maidstone. It was unveiled on Saturday by General Sir Edmund Leach, K.C.B., Honorary Colonel of the regiment, and dedicated by the Archbishop of Canterbury. A number of Mayors of Kent attended the ceremony, as well as some of the officers of the 7th Battalion and the men who fought so gallantly in Trone's Wood. The officer who was in command of these troops at the time, Captain Anstruther, and his Commanding Officer, Lieutenant-Colonel J. T. T. Myreham Fiennes, were also able to be present. General Sir E. A. H. Alderson, a former West Kent officer, gave an address after the unveiling, stating that some forty thousand officers and men served in the regiment during the war, and that no fewer than 26,000 were reported as casualties. The General added, that after he took over the command of a Canadian corps he used to say to each Canadian battery when it went into the trenches for the first time—"All the Army are saying of my old regiment, the West Kents, that they have not lost a trench." He was proud to say that his Canadian corps attained to that ideal, which the Queen's Own West Kent Regiment gave them.

THE MAURETANIA'S SAILINGS.

The Cunard Company state that owing to the recent accident to the Mauretania at Southampton they are unable to make the necessary repairs to enable her to keep her advertised sailings of 25th August and 17th September. In order, therefore, to supplement their other tonnage, and to provide accommodation for the passengers booked for the Mauretania, they have chartered the Empress of China (ex-Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm), 17,500 tons, which will be despatched from Southampton and Cherbourg on the above dates. With this additional accommodation, and any room which may not yet have been reserved in their other sailings, they hope to make satisfactory arrangements for the transfer of the Mauretania's passengers.

SALVING OF THE LAURENTIC'S BULLION.

Up till recently His Majesty's salvage ship, Racer, which has been engaged in the work of recovering bullion from H.M.S. Laurentic, mined at the entrance to Lough Swilly in 1917 when on her way to America with three millions of gold, has been favoured with suitable weather for salvage operations. But the difficulties that they have experienced in recovering the gold ingots from the ocean have been tremendous. The giant liner has broken up greatly, and many tons of wreckage cover the strong room in which the bullion was placed. So far as can be learned, up till recently, at any rate, only about sixteen bars of gold had been recovered this season, though with a continuance of good weather many more may be sent to the surface before the summer's salvage operations terminate. Each bar is estimated to be worth from £1,500 to £1,600.

DERRY FEMALE TEACHER COURTMARTIALLED.

ACCUSED ACQUITTED AND DISCHARGED.

The trial by Field General Courtmartial of Miss Matilda Gallagher, 23 Bellevue avenue, Londonderry, a national school teacher, on a charge of having firearms and ammunition not under effective military control, concluded at Ebrington Military Barracks, Londonderry. During a raid by Specials on defendant's house on the night of the 4th June a Colt revolver and several rounds of ammunition were found.

For the defence, evidence was given that the accused went to Belfast on June 4th to consult a specialist, and did not return until the following morning.

The Court acquitted the accused on both charges, and she was released.

OBITUARY.

Sir Thomas Charlton Meyrick, first Baronet of Apley Castle, Wellington, Salop, died on Saturday morning, aged eighty-four.

MR. JOHN BROWN.

Mr. John Brown, described during the war as the "Potato King," has died at Helensburgh, Dumbartonshire. He was one of the best known agriculturists in Scotland, and specialised in potato-growing.

MR. JAMES F. BARRY.

The death took place in Barrington's Hospital, Limerick, on Saturday, after a long illness, of Mr. James F. Barry, a former Mayor of Limerick and a city magistrate. Mr. Barry was extensively engaged in the wool trade, and acted in an official capacity regarding district supplies during the late war. In addition to being a city magistrate, he acted for years as city coroner.

ASTRONOMICAL NOTES FOR AUGUST.

(FROM OUR ASTRONOMICAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE PLANETS:—Mercury is a morning star until the last week. He rises more than an hour before the Sun at the beginning of August. He is very near Mars on the 10th, and is in superior conjunction on the 23rd. The conjunction with Mars may be observable about 4 a.m., but both planets are too near the Sun to be easy objects. Venus is a morning star, and will continue to be so till February, 1922. She rises soon after 1 a.m. during August, and is a brilliant object until near sunrise. Jupiter and Saturn, though still evening stars, in the sense that they set later than the Sun, are too near him to be easily visible. They are drawing very close together, and by the end of the month are only five minutes of time apart. By the time when they reappear in the morning sky after conjunction with the Sun, Jupiter will have passed well to the east of Saturn. Saturn's ring reappears on the 4th, after nearly four months of invisibility to all but very large telescopes.

Uranus will be in opposition on the 31st, the only primary planet in the evening sky at that time. On clear dark nights he will be sufficiently bright to be visible to the naked eye, and easily with a pair of good Galilean binoculars (not prismatics). His position during the coming winter will be much more easy of identification than for a long time past. Let the observer find the Great Square of Pegasus, the most conspicuous star-figure of the autumn sky. The western side of the Great Square points to the bright star, Fomalhaut. The latter, however, is only visible from British latitudes when near the meridian, so must be sought when the Great Square is high up in the sky, when Fomalhaut will be seen very low down in the south. Halve the distance from the bottom corner of the Square to Fomalhaut. Uranus is close to the half-way point, a little to the west. The fourth magnitude star, Lambda Aquarii, is the only fairly bright star near him, and will serve as a guide. Quite a small telescope will show his tiny pale-blue disc, and the contrast with the sharp diamond spark of the star.

THE MOON:—
New Moon on August 3rd at 8.18 p.m.
First Quarter on August 10th at 2.14 p.m.
Full Moon on August 18th at 3.28 p.m.
Last Quarter on August 26th at 12.51 p.m.

Reverting to my note last month on the "Moon Maiden," I may further mention that in the same region as the Maiden, a little to the south, may be found a perfect shamrock-leaf. The trefoil is complete, even to the stem. Close by is a curious marking, which has been described as a "man running away with a goose." If the Maiden be, as she sometimes looks, a Britannia, we have Great Britain, Ireland, and the man with the goose might pass for Taffy, who was a—but, no, there might be Welshmen about, and they might read this. The next occasion when this curious region will be conveniently observable will be August 14th-16th.

THE SUN:—Contrary to my expectations when writing last month's notes, vigorous spot eruptions continue to break out on the Sun's disc, and it is evident that the period of activity is by no means over, notwithstanding that the spot minimum is nearly due. It is nearly as hard to predict the behaviour of sun-spots as of the weather.

THE STARS:—At midnight on August 1st and at 10 p.m. on the 30th an observer facing south will find the constellations Cygnus, Aquila, Delphinus, and Capricornus opposite to him. Cygnus is nearly overhead, and its five conspicuous stars, forming the "Northern Cross," cannot be overlooked. Delphinus is a small group of third and fourth magnitude stars, resembling a kite with a tail. The three bright stars of Aquila, the "Three Sisters" or the "False Orion's Belt," are a little west of it. The great white stars, Vega, Deneb, and Altair, attract the eye at once, being the brightest objects in the heavens in the absence of the Moon. Capricornus, low in the south, contains no conspicuous stars. In the west are Hercules, Ophiuchus, Corona, Serpens, and Boötes. These are rich in stars of medium brightness, but only contain one of first magnitude—viz., Arcturus, which at the time given is low down in the north-west.

The eastern quarter is just now very bare of bright stars. The Great Square of Pegasus is the most conspicuous figure there. No first magnitude star is present unless Formalhaut can be glimpsed, which is unlikely, as he is only just above the south-east horizon. It is possible on occasions to see bright stars right down to the horizon in the British climate. But such an unusual clearness of the air hardly occurs once in the year, and is almost certain to be followed by bad weather.

Beginning with the upper left-hand corner of the Great Square we can trace a curved line of second magnitude stars running north-east, and consisting of Alpha, Beta, and Gamma, Andromede, and Alpha Persei. These, with Alpha Arietis, and Algol, and Beta Ceti low in the east south-east, are the most conspicuous stars present in this quarter. In the circum-polar region Cassiopeia is climbing towards the zenith, while Ursa Major, like her counterpoise, is getting his feet on the north horizon. Low down north north-east a bright star flashes through the tree-tops. This is Capella, the only one of the conspicuous winter host which never sets in this latitude. A little in advance of Capella the Pleiades may be seen, if the horizon is clear enough.

METEORS:—August is one of the best months for the meteoric observer. The great shower of Perseids, which begins to show itself before the end of July and reaches its height about August 9th, is at once the brightest and the most constant of the meteoric systems which meet the earth in its orbit. The radiant point at the time of maximum lies between Perseus and Cassiopeia, but shifts its position a little from night to night.

IRISH ART INDUSTRIES.

EXHIBITION AT DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

The Royal Dublin Society's annual exhibition of Irish art industries, to be held at Ballsbridge in connection with the Horse Show on August 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th, promises a very creditable display of imagination applied to industry by Irish art workers. The number of entries received is well above the average, and the Society has for this year increased the amount offered in prizes to £400. The exhibits are now being placed in position in the Art Industries Hall and the catalogue is in the hands of the printers. When the exhibition opens it will be found that the lamps lit by the builders of Clonmacnoise, the writers of the Book of Kells, and the makers of the Ardagh Chalice burn by no means dimly in the hands of Ireland's present day craftsmen. Viewed from another aspect, the exhibition will afford the public an opportunity of appreciating what is good in such work. The admiration expended on exotic productions, often of inferior merit, is so much discouragement to native artists. A special loan collection of lace and embroidery, containing some exceptionally fine historical examples, is being arranged in the passage leading from the main building to the Art Industries Hall.

NATIONAL EDUCATION BOARD.

An ordinary meeting of the Board of National Education, Ireland, was held on Tuesday last. The following Commissioners were present:—Lieutenant-Colonel the Right Hon. Lord Frederick FitzGerald, Right Hon. Lord Killanin, LL.D., P.C., H.M.L.; Most Rev. Patrick Foley, D.D., Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin; Mr. Gerald Dease, Right Hon. Laurence Waldron, Right Rev. Maurice Day, D.D., Bishop of Clogher; Mr. Robert Donovan, B.A.; Mr. William E. Thrift, M.A., F.T.C.D., M.P.; Mr. Denis Holland, J.P.; Rev. James Bingham, M.A., D.D.; Mr. William Parr, Right Hon. Sir Andrew Beattie, D.L.; Rev. William Gordon Strahan, B.A.; Rev. William Henry Smyth, M.A., with W. J. Dilworth, M.A., Secretary, in attendance. The chair was taken by Lord Frederick FitzGerald.

Mr. H. D. McCormack, principal teacher in the Commons National School, Co. Down, was appointed assistant master in the Newtownstewart Boys' Model School, and Miss Hannah A. Vint, assistant mistress in Lower Tannybrake National School, Co. Antrim, was appointed assistant mistress in the Ballymena Girls' Model School.

Recognition was granted on the usual conditions to the following Irish colleges:—Howth branch of the Leinster College of Irish, and Lahinch branch of the O'Curry College of Irish.

Having transacted other business, the Board adjourned.

HOWTH LIFEBOAT COMMITTEE.

REWARDS FOR PLUCKY RESCUE.

A meeting of the Howth Branch Committee of the Life Boat Institution was held on Friday evening last in the Life Boat House. Commander J. C. Gaisford St. Lawrence, R.N., D.L., presided, and there were also present:—J. Marshall Butler, J.P.; the Rev. Peter Dunne, P.P.; P. J. Hussey, A. W. Mooney, John Stuttard, W. W. Warnock, and B. J. Newcombe, Hon. Secretary.

The Chairman presented James Vaughan, boatman, and his grandson, John Malone, with monetary rewards and a letter of thanks from the Institution for their plucky action in putting off, in the sailing boat Esther, on Sunday, 12th June last, to the rescue of two Ringsend fishermen, named Michael Lacy and Patrick Daly, who had drifted to sea in an open rowing boat, and were in immediate danger of being swamped, about four miles east of Howth Harbour, in a fresh westerly breeze and choppy sea. The rescuers underwent considerable risk in taking the crew out of their partially submerged boat.

The Committee then dealt with business relating to the overhaul and repair of the Howth life boat, a reserve life boat having been temporarily placed on the station during her absence.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

THE KING AND IRELAND.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

The so-called mystery of an interview, which caused such a commotion last week, was finally cleared up during the week-end. The interview was not with Lord Northcliffe at all, but with Mr. Wickham Steed, who has denied its authenticity. It is now quite clear that it was not published in the New York Times as an interview with Lord Northcliffe. In the version cabled for our information by one of our agents in New York, the interview was said to have been attributed to Lord Northcliffe in several American papers. On examination, it appeared extremely improbable that Lord Northcliffe, or any other responsible publicist, should have given expression to the statements contained in the interview, and it was, therefore, not published in The Times. Unfortunately, the telegram had already been transmitted to the Irish edition of the Daily Mail. Efforts were immediately made to suppress it, but without success, owing to conditions which every journalist will understand.

The New York Correspondent of The Times cabled on Saturday:—The Philadelphia Public Ledger this morning prints, prominently, a despatch from its New York Correspondent, Mr. Raymond Carroll, in which he states that on Monday, four days before Mr. Lloyd George read the King's statement in the House of Commons, he saw Mr. Steed at the Hotel Gotham, New York, and showed him a copy of the New York Times, in which Mr. Steed was reported to have quoted the King as having asked Mr. Lloyd George if he was going to shoot all the people in Ireland, and as having told the Prime Minister—"I cannot have my people killed in this manner." Mr. Carroll states that Mr. Steed immediately replied—"I never said it." Mr. Carroll adds that Mr. Steed was "plainly very hurt at the treatment he had received" from the man sent to interview him on the Irish question. Mr. Steed said it was not a question of violation of confidence, which would have been bad enough. He insisted—"I never said it at all." The Correspondent adds, in a further message, that Lord Northcliffe, accompanied by Mr. Wickham Steed, left New York on Saturday evening for Toronto.

PASSING SHADOWS.

The Times, in a leading article, says:—The dispute on procedure in the Upper Silesian question has been settled by a timely exercise of tact and by a revival of that sense of proportion which was sadly lacking in certain phases of the discussion. The dispute attained at one moment such acrimony that it was magnified into a general debate on the Entente, with at least this happy result, that, in spite of, and, perhaps, because of criticism, the Entente has once again been formally and emphatically vindicated. The suggestion, and, indeed, the very real danger that the security of the Entente might be impaired dissipated that dangerous mood which delights in scoring debating points in forgetfulness of great national interests, and on Saturday the British and French Governments came to an agreement satisfactory to both parties. The new spirit of conciliation that presided over the discussions at the end of last week led to a satisfactory solution of the difficult problem of reinforcements, adds The Times. It seems for some days hardly to have been realised here that what the French felt so keenly was not that our Government should withhold their consent to the dispatch of reinforcements to Upper Silesia, but that the request to the German Government for transport facilities should not have been supported from this side. The question as to whether reinforcements are to be sent is to be put first on the agenda of the Supreme Council, which, it is now definitely stated, will meet in Paris next Monday. It need surely not have taken so long to settle this simple question of Allied prestige. The way is now clear for a settlement of the Silesian question.

THE EMPIRE WIRELESS CHAIN.

The Imperial Conference is stated to have reached conclusions on wireless telegraphy, observes The Times editorially. They should be made known without delay. Other nations are moving rapidly in the development of this new facility for communication. The establishment of a wireless chain is of vital moment to the political and commercial future of the scattered British peoples, and no ground should be given for the suspicion that our rate of progress is suffering from contending financial and scientific interests. Some minor problems have been settled in the last few weeks by a conference in Paris, in which representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, and France have agreed as to the allotment of the wave lengths. The systems of these countries will, therefore, be able to proceed without mutual interference. But we should be relieved to know that we had a system. More than a year ago the Wireless Telegraphy Committee appointed by Lord Milner published its report containing a definite scheme and giving a full estimate of expense. The scheme was believed to have received the approval of the Government, and of at least some of the Dominions. A Commission of four technical experts, appointed in accordance with the terms of the report, has since been engaged in investigating the latest developments of wireless telegraphy, and is understood to have arrived at important conclusions. The General Post Office has given repeated assurances as to the immediate opening of the first stations of the wireless chain. On the other hand, there has been serious opposition to the Committee's scheme, and the Imperial Conference was made a tribunal of revision. After a reference to the points at issue, The Times proceeds:—Mr. Robert Donald, with a distrust of the General Post Office which many must share, has pressed for the formation of a British Radio Corporation to be established by the Governments of the Empire, and with power to co-operate with commercial companies. To which side of this fundamental difference has the Imperial Conference adhered? The Empire must not be allowed to lag behind the rest of the world in wireless.

ARCHBISHOP MANNIX LANDS.

In a message from Melbourne yesterday, The Times Correspondent says:—Archbishop Mannix, who has arrived at Thursday Island, and was allowed to land there without interference, told his interviewers that this was a time for silence, and so kept silence. Some Irishmen who welcomed him in a launch tried to run up the Irish flag under the Australian, but the officials pulled it down.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED.

A North Shields message, early this morning, says that four people were killed and about twenty injured in a tramcar accident there last night, when a car belonging to the Tynemouth and District Tramway Company capsized.

FATAL MOTOR CYCLE ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Brinton, Croft House, Kidderminster, died at Exeter Hospital on Saturday evening as the result of a motor accident near Cullompton, Devon. Mr. and Mrs. Brinton and their two daughters were in a motor cycle and side-car combination, when a collision occurred with another car, and Mr. and Mrs. Brinton were pitched out. Mrs. Brinton died in hospital from the injuries which she received. Hope Brinton aged 11, was detained with contusions. The other daughter, Noel, aged 23, had her hands cut, and Mr. Brinton had slight cuts and bruises.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND COMMUNISM.

Presiding at the opening of the thirty-fifth conference of the Social Democratic Federation, at Stratford, London, yesterday, Mr. Will Thorne, M.P., said that the British Socialist Party had become the Communist Party of this country, pledged to follow the Bolshevist dictatorship of Lenin. During the past twelve months the impossibilists had been very active with their Communist propaganda work. Sane and sound advocacy of the principles of social democracy would outlast all "direct actionist" Will-o'-the-Wisps, which would lead to anarchical swamps and morasses.

Among the resolutions adopted was one calling for an immediate revision of agricultural policy, with the repeal of the Game Laws, and the cultivation of all land suitable for wheat-growing, under national and co-operative control. Another resolution declared that "direct action" could not bring about a social democratic commonwealth, and that constitutional political action was the only means to that end. The conference reaffirmed former declarations in favour of complete self-government for Ireland.

An amendment by the Northampton Branch, proposing guarantees, being opposed and withdrawn.

SCOTTISH RAIN STORM.

A severe rain storm, lasting all day, swept over Loch Lomondside and the Vale of Leven districts on Saturday. Campers on the banks were flooded out, while the River Leven and Loch Lomond rose considerably.

PORT OF LONDON RATES.

The Port of London authorities have decided to make, on and after to-day (August 1st), a reduction of 25 in the percentage addition of February 7th last to the tariff, dock and warehouse dues, rates and charges. The reduction will not apply to goods already accepted for storage at rates for services including the period of rent.

ALL-INDIA CONGRESS.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S VISIT.

BOYCOTT RESOLUTION CARRIED.

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE QUESTION.

A Bombay telegram, dated Friday, says:—A meeting of the All-India Congress Committee, attended by 150 delegates, including all the prominent Nationalist leaders, was held in Bombay yesterday to decide upon the future plan of campaign. No official account of the proceedings has been issued, but it is understood that after prolonged and heated discussion, in which considerable divergence of opinion was manifested, a resolution was adopted urging the complete boycott of foreign cloth on the lines suggested by Mr. Gandhi. It was also decided that dealers be permitted to retain their existing stocks of foreign cloths for re-exportation only.

A resolution to boycott the visit of the Prince of Wales was carried in spite of opposition, though there is reason to believe that the execution of the boycott will be confined to abstention from the official rejoicings, and that hartals (sympathetic strikes) will not be declared.

It is understood that Mr. Gandhi favoured the converting of the national schools and colleges into spinning and weaving schools, but the Marthi delegates strongly opposed the suggestion, which the meeting rejected.

This morning the question of civil disobedience was discussed. This revealed acute differences of opinion. It is stated that the outstanding feature of the meeting is the personal ascendency of Mr. Gandhi, who apparently holds a position midway between the highly practical followers of Mr. Tilak and the Northern Indian delegates. The latter demand radical action immediately. Mr. Gandhi is stated to be firmly determined to make success or failure of the cloth boycott the acid test of the country's fitness for disobedience, and refuses to discuss the latter question. At the moment there seems to be reason to believe that Mr. Gandhi will carry his point, in view of his expressed determination to sever his connection with the whole movement if his behests are not obeyed. He is meeting with strong opposition from certain United Provinces and Punjab delegates, who resent his caution and wish to precipitate the declaration of disobedience.

A further telegram, dated Saturday, says:—The resolution concerning the visit of the Prince of Wales to India declares that the Committee bears no ill-feeling against the Prince, but advises abstention from any welcome or other official functions, because the Committee regards the visit as a political move, calculated to strengthen the present system of government, which, it contends, is designed to keep India from Home Rule as long as possible.

After a prolonged and heated discussion, the Committee adopted a resolution postponing civil disobedience till the programme with regard to Swadeshi and the boycott of foreign cloth had been completed. Any Province, however, might adopt civil disobedience, provided that it obtained the approval of the All-India Congress Committee.

NATAL AND THE INDIAN QUESTION.

A telegram from Cape Town, dated Saturday, states:—In an unofficial speech at Ginginhlorn, Natal, to-day, Mr. Reitz, Minister of Lands, uttered a grave warning as regards the drawing of hasty conclusions on the Indian question, regarding which, of course, he said, he could not give any Government assurance. He urged all in Natal to realise that this was no local matter, but had a world-wide significance. It was, indeed, a matter of Indian franchise, and went far beyond the borders of the Natal question. This matter was engaging the attention of British statesmen, and the people of Natal would sympathise with England in her present trouble, and would not add further to her embarrassments.

INDIAN FRONTIER FIGHTING.

A Simla telegram says:—There have been minor skirmishes in Waziristan, particularly between friendly and hostile Mahsuds. The former repulsed an attack with the assistance of our gun fire from Ladha Camp. The Mahsuds bombed the power house at Sora Rogha, but were driven off by our pickets. Five unarmed Sepoys were ambushed in the Kurram. Three were killed, and two escaped. We frequently shelled Makin with 6-inch howitzers, with excellent effect.

GREEK OFFENSIVE.

TURKS RETREATING TO ANGORA.

The following semi-official communiqué was issued at Athens on Saturday:—Information from Eskishshr shows that Kemal Pasha had not established munition factories there. Greek troops have landed at Inserli, occupied Handra, and are now marching on Ada Bazar. The Turkish retreat towards Kastamuni is threatened. The Turks are still retreating on Angora.

An Athens telegram states:—The following Constantinople message has been received here:—On the night of July 15 the Turks arrested sixty Greeks at Adalia, and deported them to the interior after making them pay their travelling expenses. Several Greeks who were Italian subjects accepted the offer of the commander of an Italian warship to take them to Rhodes, so that they might escape Turkish persecutions.

RESISTANCE TO INCREASED RENTS.

Mr. William Field presided at a largely attended meeting of the All-Ireland Town Tenants' League, at 43 Rutland square, Dublin. In addition to members from provincial centres, close on one hundred tenants were present from Dublin City and the surrounding townships, in reference to cases of rent-raising and threatened eviction. The general complaint made by tenants was that although the owners were looking for large increases, they neglected to carry out necessary repairs.

A delegation, representing over 40 tenants on a property in Co. Dublin, attended to seek the assistance of the Town Tenants' League. In connection with this case, Mr. Coghlan Briscoe said that from enquiries made, the property appeared to be in a shocking condition, and the state of the sewerage was a scandal and a menace to the public health. He had just received a document, signed by one of the public representatives of the district, which stated that the property was a disgrace to any Christian land, that six families had to exist in houses opening on the filthiest yard, with a cesspool. The Executive decided to communicate with the owner, and to take the matter up as first business at next meeting.

Further correspondence was dealt with regarding the sale of the Clancarty Estate, and a complaint was received from Mr. Joseph Kenny, one of the tenants. A letter was also read from the local Committee asking the Executive to intervene to stop grabbing. The tenants were determined to assert the right of the occupying tenants to purchase. It was decided to consider the matter at the next meeting.

A report was read dealing with the sale of a town in Co. Cavan. The Branch there had been inactive for a considerable time, and now the landlord was making sales to the middle-men. The representatives of the tenants had been communicated with, and requested to take united action.

The proposed sale by public auction of a very important town in Munster was dealt with, and it was decided to send a representative from the Executive to assist the tenants. Correspondence was considered from over 40 towns, and satisfaction was expressed at the progress of the work of reorganising dormant centres.

The Chairman said that it should be understood that pending the establishment of Rent Courts, the All-Ireland Town Tenants' League desired to carry out amicable arrangements in disputed cases, on a basis fair to both sides, and also to promote necessary repairs. It was essential to hasten the erection of houses, as the shortage of adequate sanitary living accommodation constituted an evil to the community which needed immediate attention. He hoped tenants and public opinion would support that organisation, so that Urban residents might be safeguarded without injustice to house-owners. Legislation to effect this was urgently required, as town tenants were equally entitled to protection as land tenants.

OLD AGE PENSIONS REGULATIONS.

The Carrickmacross Old Age Pensions Sub-Committee, at a meeting on Thursday, adopted a lengthy resolution, protesting against the present system governing the investigation of ages of claimants by pensions officers, where such proofs as baptismal certificates, extracts from the Public Census Records of 1851, or marriage certificates, showing the age of the applicant at the time of marriage, are not available. When the Committee had satisfied itself in other ways that the applicants were of seventy years of age or upwards, the resolution pointed out, it was invariably found that an appeal was brought by the pensions officer against the Committee's decision, and that the onus was then thrown on the claimants of proving to the satisfaction of the Local Government Board that they were of the required age. It was suggested that the applicants should be allowed to inspect, and take extracts from, the Census returns since 1851, and also that County Court tribunals for the hearing of appeals should be set up. The Committee decided that all pending cases, in which the pensions officer had reported against the claimants on the grounds of age, stand adjourned, pending the decision of the County Committee and the Local Government Board on the issues raised.

LORD NORTHCLIFFE AND THE KING.

STATEMENT BY MR. WICKHAM STEED.

LORD STAMFORDHAM'S MESSAGE.

It is officially announced, with reference to the New York Times interview, that Lord Stamfordham, the King's Private Secretary, on Saturday sent to Lord Northcliffe the following telegram:—

"Viscount Northcliffe, Washington.

"I have communicated to the King your message received by me this morning. His Majesty is glad that it confirms the statement made on his authority by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons yesterday.

(Signed) "STAMFORDHAM."

A WASHINGTON DINNER.

A Washington telegram, dated Saturday, states:—Lord Northcliffe left yesterday evening for New York, where he will spend to-day, and then proceed, via Montreal, to Australia. Before his departure he attended a dinner given by Mrs. McLean. Among the guests present were—The Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes; Mr. Hoover, Secretary for Commerce; Mr. Denby, Secretary for the Navy; Mr. Fall, Secretary for the Interior; and General Pershing.

LORD NORTHCLIFFE SILENT.

MR. STEED EXPLAINS.

Writing on Saturday, Reuter's New York Correspondent said:—Lord Northcliffe left for Toronto to-night. He declined to answer any questions as to the interview erroneously attributed to him. Mr. Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times, questioned regarding his alleged interview with a representative of the New York Times, said:—Direct statements are attributed to me which I did not make, and I could not have made them, because neither Mr. Lloyd George nor the King told me what they said to one another. Regarding the actual facts of the Irish situation, it is a fact that none can contest that the possible settlements growing out of the truce can directly be attributed to the King's speech at Belfast—a great hearted and considerate speech. It is also incontestable that the King feels for his Irish subjects an equal solicitude, and nothing would rejoice him more than to see prospective peace in Ireland. The Times has worked very hard for two years to promote an Irish settlement that the Government seems to be approaching. We have given the Lloyd George Government our fullest support when it seemed to be treading the path of peace, and we shall continue to give our fullest support to efforts towards its successful conclusion. No one knows that better than Mr. Lloyd George, who for two years, has had pertinent reason to know how true it is. That, and that alone, was the sense of the quite informal talk I had with a representative of the New York Times.

"NEW YORK TIMES" EDITORIAL NOTE.

The New York Times of Saturday prints the following editor's note on its front page:—

"The interview with Mr. Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times, published in the New York Times on Monday, was written by a trustworthy reporter, who believes he reported accurately what Mr. Steed said. Mr. Steed has since told The Times that the interview contained matter that should not have been published. Mr. Steed did not have an opportunity to revise the interview. As reprinted in England, in one of Lord Northcliffe's own papers, according to cable despatches, it appears that the interview was incorrectly attributed to Lord Northcliffe himself. Lord Northcliffe has not given the New York Times, nor has the Times reported him as giving, any statement of the purported conversation between King George and Mr. Lloyd George.

THE "NEW YORK WORLD'S" EXPLANATION.

Sunday's New York World, explaining how the Northcliffe interview controversy started, says that last Sunday a New York Times reporter sought an interview with Lord Northcliffe on the Irish situation. Mr. Wickham Steed telephoned a request to Lord Northcliffe, who was playing golf at New Rochelle. The latter replied—"You know my mind, Steed; give the gentleman my views, and look over his article." This was done, and when the interviewer, in chat, supposedly not for publication, asked Mr. Wickham Steed for an amplification of the views he had expressed, Mr. Steed, desirous of giving the interviewer a background, to enable him better to understand the situation, told him of the great forward impetus toward settlement given by the King's Belfast speech. Mr. Wickham Steed, the World adds, referred to the King's great desire for peace, and said something like this:—"His Majesty was most earnest in his wish for some definite move towards a settlement of the grave Irish question. He probably had in his mind a feeling for those involved, something like this—'Now see here, you chaps, you must do something. You cannot shoot all the people in Ireland. We cannot have our people killed like this. You must be on to your jobs, and accomplish something.'" The World adds—It will be seen from this quotation, which was given for the sake of atmosphere, that Mr. Wickham Steed did not quote the King as actually using these words, but merely said that the King might have had in his mind the sentiments they represent. The interviewer, in error, believed them to be an actual quotation, and incorporated them into his article, which was cabled to England next day. There the blunder was heightened, when it was declared that Lord Northcliffe, and not Mr. Wickham Steed, had given the interview.

IRISH WHITE CROSS.

BISHOP OF ALTOONA'S SUBSCRIPTION.

The Bishop of Altoona has addressed the following letter to Cardinal Logue:—

"Bishop's House, 1,211 13th street,
"Altoona, Pa., July 13th, 1921.

"To His Eminence, Michael Cardinal Logue.

"YOUR EMINENCE,—I am enclosing a draft on the Belfast Banking Company for four thousand one hundred and thirteen pounds (£4,113). The draft represents the response that was made to my appeal in the Diocese of Altoona for the suffering people of Ireland.

"In my letter announcing the collection, I stated that I would send to Your Eminence whatever might be received to be used in those places that would seem to Your Eminence most in need of assistance. The sum would be greater were it not for the fact that a special collection had been taken up in the most populous and most prosperous county of the diocese before I issued my letter. As it is, the collection is larger than other diocesan collections.

"It is a consolation to me to forward to Your Eminence this substantial evidence of the love of our people for their parents' home, and of their interest in the mighty struggle that is now going on in the land of sorrows.

"I am sending this draft the day before the meeting of Mr. de Valera and Lloyd George, and can assure Your Eminence that from many faithful hearts in this land, where the Irish people have done so much to perpetuate and to spread our blessed faith, there goes up to God an earnest prayer that the troubles of Ireland may quickly end, and that the anxieties of Your Eminence and of the bishops of Ireland may soon be allayed.

"With sentiments of profound respect and esteem, I beg leave to sign myself, Your Eminence's humble servant,

(Signed) "JNO. J. MCCORT,
"Bishop of Altoona."

CHARGE AGAINST TIPPERARY COLLECTORS DISMISSED.

The decision was given on Saturday in a case tried by a Military Court at Tipperary recently, against six defendants, one of whom is Chairman of the South Tipperary County Council, for holding a collection in aid of the Irish White Cross Association in the precincts of the Roman Catholic church without a permit from the military authorities. The defence was that the collection was held in the private grounds of the church, and that a permit was unnecessary. The case against all the defendants was dismissed.

FATAL BURNING ACCIDENT.

An inquest was held at Luton on Saturday on William Holland, a smallholder, of Totternhoe, who lost his life in attempting to save some stacks of corn from fire. He had been burning rubbish in a field when a high wind took the fire along the stubble to the corn. In his attempt to beat it out Holland's clothes caught fire, and he was terribly burned when assistance arrived. He died in hospital on Saturday morning. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

THE CANADIAN PREMIER.

Mr. Meighen, Canadian Premier, has left London on his return journey to Canada.

COAL PRICES REDUCED IN CORK.

The price of coal was reduced by 5s. per ton in Cork on Saturday. The reduction gave much satisfaction to the citizens.

SILESIAN DIFFICULTY.

ANOTHER COMPROMISE.

ANGLO-FRENCH UNDERSTANDING.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE AND PLAIN SPEAKING.

SUPREME COUNCIL TO MEET IN PARIS.

The Press Association says:—The British Note to France respecting Upper Silesia and the Allied Conference has been followed by an agreement between the two countries which is officially declared to be entirely satisfactory to both. The Conference in Paris will be held on August 4th as previously arranged. Lord Curzon leaves for Paris on Wednesday, and Mr. Balfour will be associated with him at the Conference.

A Paris telegram of Saturday states:—Lord Hardinge, the British Ambassador, this evening informed M. Briand that the British Government readily agreed with M. Briand's proposals, and that the British Ambassador in Berlin would join the French and Italian Ambassadors there in a joint démarche with a view to informing the German Government that it must facilitate by all means possible the passage through Germany of Allied troops, which the situation in Upper Silesia may render necessary at any moment.

Lord Hardinge added that Lord Curzon proposed August 8 as the date of the meeting of the Supreme Council, the Italian Prime Minister being unable to journey to France before that date. Mr. Lloyd George would be present at the meeting of the Supreme Council, which would take place in Paris, if such was the desire of the French Government. The tone of the British reply is extremely cordial. Lord Hardinge expressed his great satisfaction at seeing the misunderstandings of the last few days removed.

A further telegram from Paris says that Belgium will be invited to send representatives to the Conference, and that America also will send a delegate.

A Paris telegram, dated Sunday, says:—M. Briand, the Premier, had instructions sent yesterday evening to the French Ambassador in Berlin asking him to join with his British and Italian colleagues in making joint application to Germany to let her know that she must be prepared to facilitate by every available means the transport of Allied troops through Germany, which the situation in Upper Silesia might render necessary at any moment. These representations will probably be made to Germany by the Allied Ambassadors to-morrow.

The Petit Parisien believes that the Supreme Council will meet at Boulogne on August 3-4, and says that the Italian Premier, Signor Bononi, being unable to attend the first sittings owing to the Italian Pariament being in session, will be replaced by the Italian Foreign Minister, the Marquis della Torretta.

A GERMAN REQUEST.

A Berlin telegram, dated Friday, states:—The German Committee for Upper Silesia has addressed to the British, French, and Italian Governments, and to the Ambassadors' Conference in Paris, telegrams urging them on behalf of all German political and economic organisations in Upper Silesia, to come to a definite decision regarding the fate of Upper Silesia at the meeting of the Supreme Council on August 4th. It is declared that under the existing conditions the population is faced with moral and economic ruin, and that a provisional settlement will only make matters worse.

A Rome telegram, dated Friday, states:—In connection with Italy's attitude to the meeting of the Supreme Council, I learn from an entirely trustworthy source that negotiations of great importance are in progress between the Italian and German Governments, and are drawing to a close. These negotiations would allow Germany to retain her property in Italy in exchange for one thousand million lire (forty million pounds nominal) in Upper Silesian mining shares. Should an agreement of this kind be reached, it will be seen that of the nations represented at the Supreme Council Great Britain alone will have no direct interest in the Upper Silesian decision. It is mentioned that the Italian Government took a decided step in the direction of this agreement at a meeting between Signor Bonomi, the Prime Minister, and Marchese Della Torretta, and Signor Frassati, the Italian Ambassador in Berlin, yesterday morning.

BUSINESS OF ALLIED COUNCIL.

The meeting of the Supreme Council, a Paris telegram of Sunday states, will be a particularly important one. It will have first to settle the question of reinforcements to be sent to Upper Silesia, and then the partition of the plebiscite territories. The question of the verdict on the German war criminals and the judicial comedy at Leipzig will probably also be examined. The question of the maintenance and occupation of Ruhrort, Duisburg and Düsseldorf, the Rhine Customs cordon, and the 25 per cent. on exports will certainly be dealt with.

There is every reason to believe also that the heads of the Allied States will discuss the question of the famine in Russia and means of giving relief. The League of Nations has already entrusted Dr. Nansen with the task of giving assistance, but his mission failed because of the inadmissible claims of the Soviet Government to control alone the distribution of such supplies. It is expected that the meeting will last from eight to ten days.

According to a Paris telegram, dated Sunday, General Lerond, President of the Inter-Allied Commission in Upper Silesia, arrived there yesterday.

Discussing the provisional agreement reached by the British and the French Governments on the Upper Silesian question, the Temps says:—The crisis is past. The Franco-British difference, created by precipitance and envenomed by argument, is settled.

The Journal des Debats says that everyone will rejoice that the incident has been liquidated, but utters a warning against undue importance being attributed to the arrangement that has been reached and against bestowing excessive praise on those who have made it.

GERMAN PEACE MEETINGS.

A great pacifist demonstration, attended by many thousands of persons, was held in Lustgarten here this morning, says a Berlin telegram of Sunday. Thirty prominent speakers uttered vigorous protests against the continuance of the spirit of war and revenge, and demanded the pursuance of a peaceful foreign policy. More than a score of political parties and social organisations were represented, including the Majority and Independent Socialist Parties, trades unions, and the German Peace Society. The gathering broke up with cries of "Down with militarism, down with arms, and long live the brotherhood of nations." The Communists took no part in the proceedings.

Similar peace demonstrations were held in some three hundred towns and villages of Germany to-day.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S SPEECH.

PRELIMINARY DIFFICULTIES OVERCOME.

A REAL PEACE.

Mr. Lloyd George, the Prime Minister, on Saturday unveiled the War Memorial at Thame, Oxfordshire, to the memory of those soldiers from the district who fell in the war. Thame has a population of 3,000, including women and children; 600 men joined the Colours, and 86 of these lost their lives. Major Valentine Fleming, who represented South Oxfordshire in 1914, was killed in the course of the war, in which his successor, Captain Reginald Terrell, M.P., also served in the Grenadier Guards, and was himself wounded.

THE PRIME MINISTER.

Mr. Lloyd George, said—In the great war the British Empire called ten millions of men to her colours, the greatest army ever enrolled by any Empire. They were the picked men of the many nations that constitute this Empire. They fought in three continents and on many oceans. They suffered heavily. Our casualties were nearly a million dead (the actual figures are 947,000) and over two million wounded. The total casualties were over three millions. In addition to this the burdens which had been cast upon the shoulders of the citizens of this country as the result of this devastating war were enormous. These men, most of whom came to the flag voluntarily, fought, not to repel the invader from their home, but for fair play to other countries that were being trampled upon by a ruthless foe. That was an element in the sacrifice which ennobled it. Great as our losses were, those of France were even greater. They were greater in the actual numbers of their dead and of their wounded; they were still greater in proportion to their population, and France, in addition to the heavy cost of the war, has also to repair her devastated provinces. It is inconceivable that two countries which made such tremendous sacrifices for a common cause, and through such suffering won a common triumph for that cause, should quarrel over the interpretation of the peace which they achieved at such cost.

TALKING PLAINLY.

We have had some differences with France recently over the interpretation of one of the sections of that treaty, and we have talked very plainly to each other. That is quite right. Plain speaking generally leads to good understanding. Thoughts working in concealment are dangerous. It is much better to have it out, and we have both done so with the most excellent results. We are, I believe, to-day on the high road to an understanding. The preliminary difficulties which are causing trouble have, I am glad to tell you, been accommodated, and it has been arranged that the Allies meet in a few days to settle this vexed question, and, I hope, finally. Britain only claims that she must have a voice in the interpretation of a peace she made such sacrifices to win. She does not claim a predominant voice or a determining voice; that would be so arrogant a demand that no self-respecting Ally could possibly tolerate it. We only ask for an equal voice. We are prepared to go beyond that. We recognise fully that the greater sacrifices of France give her a special claim for consideration; that her interests are more immediate in some of these questions; that danger is closer to her frontiers, more visible to her eyes; that historical causes, some of them recent, and very fresh in her memory, make her apprehensions more vivid and poignant than ours. We are willing to allow for all that. I would only respectfully say that these considerations, although they give France a better right to a hearing of her case, are of a character which is apt to deflect calm judgments.

A REAL PEACE.

The British Empire has but one concern in all these questions—that the peace so dearly won should be a real peace, should be an immediate peace; a deferred peace is half a war. Let us have the peace which this noble blood was shed to purchase. They did not die that nations should continue to hurl hatreds at each other and organise against each other even bloodier conflicts than those in which they fell. If Britain seems to be always restraining, always counselling patience, always urging moderation in the affairs of Europe, it is because this terrible war has taught us the value of peace. Our sole anxiety is lest the Allies, by an unwise and harsh use of their undoubted power, should roll deeper and firmer into the soil those roots of future conflict which were withering on the surface in the sunshine of the great victory. If there is another war it will be terrible beyond thought; the machinery of destruction during the war was becoming more terrible year by year, month by month. Just before the bells of peace were set ringing we had ready more horrible machinery than the world had yet seen. I doubt not that similar devices were perfecting on the other side. The ingenious mind of man will go on developing these horrors, and no one can conceive what the next war might be like. Europe might become as the North of France.

A LEGACY OF HATE.

We must beware lest we bequeath to our children a legacy of concentrated hate which will one day explode, shattering their happiness and leaving the world a wilderness, and man a gaunt wanderer amongst the ruins of the civilisation his folly has destroyed. Should this happen the gallant young men of Thame will have died in vain. Millions more of brave men in five continents will have sacrificed their lives to no good purpose. That is the reason why, as the whole might of the British Empire was in August, 1914, cast into the war, to-day the same power is thrown into the scales of peace.

IRISH RAILWAYMEN AND DECONTROL.

PROTESTS AGAINST REDUCED WAGES.

APPLICATION OF THE NATIONAL AGREEMENT.

A conference of delegates of the National Union of Railwaymen was held in the Co-operative Hall, Thomas street, Dublin, yesterday morning, to consider the position created by the de-control of Irish railways, and to decide upon a line of action. In the evening a mass meeting of the men was held in the Trades Hall, Capel street, Mr. Larkin, Waterford, presiding. The matters dealt with at the conference were again mentioned.

The Chairman said that the first question that had been dealt with by the All-Ireland Conference of Railwaymen that day was that of the sliding scale and its unjust and unwarrantable operation; in other words, the uncalled-for and unjustifiable reduction of wages which had recently taken place. They fully recognised the principles of the agreement arrived at between the men's executive and the railway companies, and wished that the railway companies had honoured it in the same spirit as the men. They maintained that the Board of Trade figures in regard to the cost of living in Ireland were inaccurate. Some months ago the cost of living in Dublin was 35 per cent. higher than in London, and to-day it was 25 per cent. higher. A deliberate attempt was being made by those in control to deprive railwaymen of their proper and just status of living, and to cast them back into the abominable position that they occupied in pre-war days. It was for the railwaymen to say whether they would revert to that position or not. If they had to fight, railwaymen would fight victoriously. (Applause.)

MR. JAMES BERMINGHAM.

Mr. James Bermingham, Irish Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, said that there was going to be an attempted departure from what had been taking place during the past four or five years. They in Ireland were part and parcel with railwaymen in England, bound up in the national agreement on the sliding scale. They decided to accept the Board of Trade figures when the cost of living was on the upward tendency, and now they were faced with the problem, be it fair or unfair, that they were pledged and bound to the sliding scale. But they had a right to complain that there was something inaccurate at work in Ireland, either created by profiteers in this country, or there was false figuring by the Board of Trade. Food and other articles could be purchased far cheaper in London than in Irish cities or towns. He held that a continuation of the sliding scale on its downward tendency was not only wrong, but detestable to railwaymen. It was an anomaly, and a breach of the national agreement. He saw that the de-control of the railways would undoubtedly come into operation on the 14th inst. The arrangements made in England were the finest and most admirable that he had ever read in regard to the machinery to supersede control, but they did not apply to Ireland. He did not want to say anything that would create bad feeling between the Irish railway companies and the National Union of Railwaymen, but the Irish railway companies apparently were not in a frame of mind to fall into line with England, Scotland, and Wales, and set themselves up on an immunitive pedestal. If the fight was forced upon the railwaymen the general public could not blame them, and he assured them they would be ready to meet the trouble. Their defence was 21,000 members in Ireland. If the companies did not give them justice they would compel them to do it. (Applause.)

AN INVESTIGATION OF HIGH PRICES.

Mr. Ward (Belfast) proposed a motion emphatically protesting against the recent reduction of wages as being unjustifiable, inasmuch as these reductions were based on figures supplied by the Board of Trade, which were not a true reflex of the actual cost of living as it affected the average workingman in Ireland; calling upon the Executive Council to have a tribunal appointed to visit the various towns in Ireland and carefully investigate the retail prices of commodities, and to take a comparative return of wages enjoyed by other workers throughout Ireland, with a view to preventing any reduction of wages, and, if figures warrant it, to have the wages recently stopped returned to Irish railwaymen.

Mr. J. Walsh (Cork) seconded the resolution, which was passed.

On the motion of Mr. W. Walsh (Broadstone), seconded by Mr. McKeown (Mullingar), a resolution was passed appreciating the services of Mr. J. H. Thomas and the Labour Party in blocking the Irish Railways Bill until the same conditions were embodied in it as applied to Great Britain, and pledging support to the Executive in whatever they decided to do to put those conditions into effect.

Mr. Daly (Broadstone) proposed, and Mr. Noctor (Westland row) seconded, a resolution, which was passed, drawing attention to the unwarrantably high prices now operating against the community, and demanding some form of investigation to discover the bona fides of such prices.

A resolution was passed calling for the reinstatement of victimised men on the Great Northern Railway, following the munitions dispute, and of four ticket collectors who were recently dismissed at Westland row.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman and speakers concluded the proceedings.

THREE SHIPS LOST.

ONE OF THEM FROM WEXFORD.

A Lloyd's message states that a boat arrived at Lennon Cove, Cornwall, on Saturday with a crew of four of the schooner Edith Eleanor, of Wexford, and reported that the vessel foundered on Friday 100 miles north-west of Wolf. All the hands were saved.

The steam drifter, the King of Banff, sank on Saturday morning thirteen miles off Ross Head, Wick. The crew were landed at Wick.

The schooner, Ulverston, of Lancaster, was wrecked in Luce Bay. The crew of three were landed at Drummore.

MASTER OF THE ROLLS AND THE MILITARY.

THE INCIDENT CLOSED.

PRISONERS TO BE LIBERATED.

STATEMENT BY MR. SERJEANT HANNA.

ISSUE OF WRITS STAYED.

A further development took place on Saturday in connection with the writs of habeas corpus ordered by the Master of the Rolls, returnable for last Friday, in the cases of two men, John Joseph Egan and Patrick Higgins, who had been sentenced to death by military courts—the former for possession of ammunition and the latter in connection with the Clonmult affray.

The Master of the Rolls sat in the morning to dispose of motions, and having done so left the Bench, remarking that he would return again to hear any applications that might be made.

At 11.20 Mr. Serjeant Hanna entered the Court, and the Master of the Rolls again came on the Bench.

Addressing his lordship, Serjeant Hanna said:—Would your lordship permit me to mention the two cases of Egan and Higgins, which were before your lordship yesterday?

The Master of the Rolls—Certainly.

Serjeant Hanna—At the time your lordship made the observations that you did from the Bench yesterday I had discharged my duty as counsel for the moment, and as your lordship's order for attachment created a very critical situation I did not think it advisable to make for the moment any observation or explanation without further consultation with the authorities. I have now been instructed by the Government to say——

The Master of the Rolls—When you say the Government you mean, of course, the parties to whom the writ was directed.

Serjeant Hanna—I do not profess that I have had any personal communication with any of the parties concerned, but the Government of the country have directed me to state to your lordship there was no intention to show disrespect towards your lordship or your lordship's Court, and had it not been the last day of term an application might have been made to your lordship to stay the order pending the hearing of the appeal. But, having considered all the circumstances—that is, the Government having considered all the circumstances—and being aware of the fact that there can be no sitting of the Court of Appeal or the House of Lords until autumn they have instructed me to say that they will release the prisoners pending the hearing of the appeal and without prejudice to any action consequent in the result of the appeal. I hope your lordship will accept this as a satisfactory solution of the difficulty.

The Master of the Rolls—The way the matter stood was this. The writ of this Court went forth to certain parties, and there was only one course open, and that was to obey the writ. It should have been obeyed by making a return and by bringing the bodies of the prisoners into Court. If that had been done the Court would have had full jurisdiction over the prisoners. But, having regard to what happened, the arm of the Court was paralysed. The Court had not the custody of the prisoners, and therefore could not discharge them. Now, if the bodies of the prisoners had been produced it would have been the right of prisoners' counsel immediately to have applied for their discharge. Owing to the absence of the prisoners really the arm of the Court was paralysed—it could do nothing. And, having regard to the fact that the writ of the Court was disobeyed there was only one course open, and that was to assert the authority of the Court. Now I have to consider what would have happened. If the prisoners' counsel applied for a discharge it was quite possible that Serjeant Hanna, acting on behalf of the military authorities, might have asked for a stay, and a very, very serious question would have arisen then. I could not grant a stay unless you showed me some precedent. So far as I know there is no precedent for putting a stay on a writ of habeas corpus. Now the situation has changed, as I understand that the Government, which I cannot differentiate from the military authorities, has undertaken to release the prisoners.

Serjeant Hanna—That is so, my lord.

The Master of the Rolls—That will be carrying out the most that could have been done for the prisoners if their bodies had been produced in Court.

Addressing Mr. Lynch, his lordship asked if he had any application to make.

Mr. Lynch, K.C. (who appeared for the prisoners)—None, after what your lordship has said. Nothing more could have been done if they were produced. I will say nothing except that I offer no opposition to what has been suggested by the learned serjeant. I am quite sure that the undertaking given will be carried out. That is quite satisfactory to my clients, and they will be discharged to-morrow.

Serjeant Hanna—At once, forthwith.

Master of the Rolls—I am perfectly certain that Serjeant Hanna intended no disrespect to the Court, but I do think the military authority took the wrong course.

Serjeant Hanna—Had I known yesterday I possibly would have stated to your lordship that there might have been military difficulty in bringing the prisoners in the present state of peace from the South of Ireland. But that does not matter now—they will be released.

Master of the Rolls—The writ was directed not merely against certain gentlemen who constituted the military authority, but also against a civilian, and the writ ought to have been returned by him also. He might possibly have made such a return, as we have absolved him from all responsibility. I do not know whether he could or not. I take it that you appear for him also.

Serjeant Hanna—I do.

Mr. Lynch—I think he ought to return it now.

Master of the Rolls—There is no necessity for returning it now. They are to be discharged.

His lordship added that he would put a stay on the issue of the writs, and, addressing Serjeant Hanna, he further said—Your conduct of the case from beginning to end was such as would be expected from a member of the Bar of your great eminence.

Serjeant Hanna—I am much obliged to your lordship.

Mr. Patrick Lynch, K.C.; Mr. H. Kennedy, K.C., and Mr. Costello (instructed by Mr. J. B. Lynch) appeared for the prisoner Egan; and the same counsel (instructed by Mr. W. J. Barry) appeared for the prisoner Higgins; Mr. Serjeant Hanna, K.C.; Mr. H. D. Conner, K.C.; Mr. Lipsett, K.C., and Mr. Smylie (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor) appeared for the defendants.

DUBLIN PRESBYTERY.

VISITATION OF BALLACOLLA (QUEEN'S COUNTY.)

A commission of the Dublin Presbytery, consisting of the following gentlemen, met in the Presbyterian Church, Ballacolla, on Friday, the 29th ult:—The Moderator, the Rev. W. S. Kirkpatrick, the Revs. G. T. C. Clements (clerk), Hanna, Brennan, Smyth, Crockett, H. McNeill (Elder). The Rev. W. S. Montgomery, B.D. (Pastor loci), conducted public worship. Mr. William Mitchell and Mr. Thomas Dodds represented the Kirk Session; Mr. Andrew Fyffe and Mr. John Gordon, the Congregational Committee.

The following is the finding:—The Presbytery of Dublin, having heard the replies to the questions, congratulate the minister and congregation on the happy state of affairs that their answers disclose. They rejoice that the relationship between the minister and his people is so cordial, and that Mr. Montgomery's services and ministrations are so highly regarded. This is as they would expect, because among his brethern of the Presbytery, Mr. Montgomery is recognised as one of the most scholarly of ministers, and is highly esteemed for his work's sake.

The Presbytery observe with special satisfaction the excellent work of the minister in the Sabbath school and among the young people of the church. The Presbytery are pleased that the affairs of the congregation are wisely administered by the committee, and that the church and manse are in such excellent repair. They note also the generous response which the congregation, though small in numbers, has made to all the appeals of our own church and to philanthropic objects even outside our denomination. In particular, they note the liberal contributions made to the Sustentation Fund, and are thankful to see that there has been an increase in stipend, in Missionary collections, and, indeed, in all funds.

The Presbytery is well aware that in the abnormal situation which has recently existed in the country, their church attendance and church work have often been difficult. They therefore thankfully recognise the loyalty of the members of the congregation, and the Presbytery recommend the members, scattered though they are, to make an earnest effort to be present on the Lord's Day at the worship in God's house. In this way they not only enjoy a privilege, and fulfil a duty, but they also encourage the minister and help in the praise service of the Sanctuary. This part of the service is well rendered in Ballacolla, and the Presbytery feel that the congregation is deeply indebted to the hon. organist.

In conclusion, the Presbytery heartily commend the faithfulness of the members and their loyalty to the church of their fathers. They are thankful to God that they have been kept safely amid the tumult and dangers of recent times, and they commit the congregation and all its concerns to the care of Almighty God.

They appoint the Rev. John Brennan, of Kilkenny, to read this finding on a convenient Sabbath.

The members of commission were hospitably entertained to luncheon in the De Vesci Arms Hotel, Abbeyleix, by the Kirk Session and Committee.

TERRITORIAL FORCE FOR ULSTER.

EX-SERVICEMEN'S RESOLUTION.

At a meeting of the Ulster Ex-Service Men's Association, Mr. R. Boyd (secretary) stated that in his opinion the time had come, not for words, but for actions, and he advocated immediate action being taken in transforming the association into a territorial force, under the direct control of competent military officers. This could be done at once, and, with men of the calibre of the members of the Ulster Ex-Service Men's Association, would be a distinct acquisition to any Government in their efforts to uphold the laws and constitutions of the province.

Other speakers followed, and the suggestion was put in the form of a resolution and carried with acclamation.

BELFAST MAN'S DEATH.

FAILURE TO ANSWER A CHALLENGE.

Mr. Thomas Reid, aged 34 years, a signalman in the employment of the Belfast and County Down Railway Company, and who resided at Ballygowan, died in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Belfast, early yesterday morning. It appears that he was driving with another passenger in a motor car on Saturday night, and when passing the camp of the Special Constabulary at Newtownards a sentry called upon the occupants to halt. Apparently the driver did not hear the challenge and the car was not stopped. A shot was fired. The bullet struck Mr. Reid in the chest and he immediately collapsed. He was taken in the Fire Brigade ambulance to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where he died about an hour after admission. Mr. Reid was a married man with two children.

CONCLUSION OF BELFAST ASSIZES.

CHARGE OF SHOOTING WITH INTENT.

CIVILIAN ACQUITTED.

The Belfast Assizes concluded in the County Courthouse on Saturday, before Mr. Justice Moore. The last person for trial was Thomas Fowles, who pleaded not guilty to having, on the 14th July, fired a revolver at Seaforde street, in the direction of Mary Myers and Kitty M'Dermott, with intent to create terror amongst His Majesty's subjects.

Mr. B. J. Fox (instructed by Mr. John Graham, solicitor) defended the accused.

The Crown relied principally on the evidence of Mary Myers and Kitty M'Dermott, who said that they were at the back door of M'Dermott's house in Seaforde street when they saw three young men coming from Bryson street. Two stood at a lamppost and the third moved further away from where they were. That third man was the prisoner. He had on a navy blue suit and a grey cap. Prisoner and the other men fired a number of shots up the street. They were twenty yards off when they fired the shots. Witnesses could see the revolvers in the men's hands.

M'Dermott, in reply to a juror, said that she had known Fowles for a good many years.

A Juror—When the first shot was fired did you stay until eight or nine were fired?

Witness—Yes; I was that much excited at seeing prisoner.

To his Lordship—She shouted, "Thomas Fowles, I know you."

For the defence, William Boyd, 42 Templemore avenue, said that about six o'clock on the evening of 14th July he was with the prisoner in a temperance refreshment house, and they remained until 7.30 p.m. After they came out they met other men, with whom they talked till after nine o'clock. They then went to Bryson street, and found the street crowded following the discharge of shots. Prisoner, witness, and the other men remained at Bryosn street until 10.20 p.m., when they dispersed for the night.

William Gilliland, 56 Bryson street, corroborated. Witness was with prisoner when he went to the police court on the 18th July. He then saw Byrne leave a bundle of witnesses and come close to prisoner, so as to look at him, and then walk on back to the crowd of witnesses.

Similar evidence was given by Mrs. E. Armstrong and Sarah Castles.

The jury found the accused not guilty, and he was discharged.

PRISONERS SENTENCED.

Mr. Justice Moore passed the following sentences on prisoners:—

William Lawrence, who pleaded guilty of riot on 14th July, a recorded sentence of sixe months' imprisonment.

James Stirling, found guilty of larceny by menaces during a raid in sub-post office, nine months' hard labour.

Thomas McBride, Thomas Robinson, Robert Wright, Samuel McCammond, Hugh Rowney, James Smith, Robert H. Marrison and John Fee were put forward, they having been found guilty of breaking and entering a publichouse on 12th July.

McCammond, Rowney, Smith, and Robinson were sent to jail for three months with hard labour each. On account of extenuating circumstances, the other prisoners, Wright, McBride, Smith, and Fee were put on bail, sentences of six months being recorded against them.

Joseph Smith had pleaded guilty to false pretences in obtaining unemployment money to the amount of £2 4s. Prisoner paid back the money.

His lordship said that it was a pity to see a man of good service swindling the Government in such a mean way. He had won the Military Medal.

On entry into bail prisoner was discharged.

John Nolan and Michael O'Neill, found guilty of shooting at a man named Young at Moffatt street, on 25th June, were put forward.

His lordship said that he was certain Nolan intended to assassinate Young, and then he came into Court and told a lying story through his counsel. Nolan would go to jail for six months with hard labour. O'Neill was not so bad, as his act was not premeditated. He would go to jail for three months.

George Stevenson and Robert Buchanan, convicted of demanding liquor with menaces, were next dealt with.

Stevenson, who, the prison doctor said, had a diseased heart, was let out on bail, a recorded sentence of six months being passed. Buchanan was sent to jail for three months.

THE WORST CASE AT THE ASSIZES.

Joseph Stevenson, John Bowers, and Francis White, convicted of riot at Garmoyle street, and attempted arson, were then put forward.

Mr. Fox said that Stevenson had a pension.

His Lordship—He is going to lose it. This is the worst case of the assizes, and the prisoner was the ringleader of a mob burning people out.

Mr. Fox—I can prove that he protected property.

His Lordship—Then he is a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Protecting and burning out by turn.

Mr. Fox—Do not deprive him of his pension.

His Lordship—This man goes to a house where there is a woman and little children and throws a bomb in, careless whether he kills them or not. This is the worst case of the assizes, and one that brings the fair fame of this great city into disrepute.

Mr. Fox—I am asked to say a word for Bowers.

His Lordship—Bowers's character could not be worse, and he is the man your respectable client was co-operating with in this enterprise.

Mr. Bell, for the other prisoner, asked that his lordship should deal with the cases in the spirit of the truce.

His Lordship—Six months' imprisonment in each case with hard labour. If Stevenson loses his pension, he has only himself to blame.

BALLYMENA FLAX MARKET.

The weekly flax market was held at Ballymena Fair Hill on Saturday in showery weather. Prices ranged from 10s. to 17s. a stone. There was a brisk demand and a good attendance of buyers. The flax was all bought up. During the war the price of flax reached 25s. a stone.

WAGES IN THE LINEN PIECE GOODS TRADE.

A meeting of the Linen and Cotton Handkerchief and Household Goods and Linen Piece Goods Trade Board (Ireland) was held in Belfast on the 28th ult. The Board agreed to issue a notice of proposal to fix general minimum time rates for female learners, varying from 2¼d. per hour to 6¾d. per hour, and for female juvenile workers, other than learners, varying from 2¾d. per hour to 7½d. per hour, in both cases according to age of entry into the trade and period of employment therein. General minimum time rates were also agreed on for male workers having not less than six months' experience at Swiss embroidery machines, varying from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 4d. per hour, according to the class of machine operated; for experienced lappers, 1s. 5d. per hour, and for experienced measurers and sample-makers, 1s. 5½d. per hour. It is proposed that the two last-mentioned rates shall be subject to a reduction of 10 per cent. in the case of workers employed in districts situate more than thirty miles by rail from Belfast. Proposals in regard to overtime rates were agreed on for male and female workers for whom generals minimum time rates have been fixed or proposed.

A notice giving full particulars of the Board's proposals will be issued in due course to all employers in the trade and other interested parties, and a period of two months will be allowed for the lodgment of ojections (if any) from the date of issue of the notice.

The Italian Government has re-named the Coltano (Italy) High-Power Wireless Station "Guglielmo Marconi," as "a tangible and lasting proof of the country's gratitude for his meritorious discoveries in the field of radio-telegraphy."

PEACE MOVEMENT.

NO MEETING OF DAIL EIREANN SUMMONED.

MR. ART O'BRIEN IN DUBLIN.

Messrs. Griffith, Desmond Fitzgerald, and McEntee were at the Mansion House, Dublin, on Saturday. Press representatives were informed that there was nothing to communicate. It was stated that no arrangements had been made to hold a meeting of Dail Eireann.

The Press Association says:—Mr. Art O'Brien, Dail Eireann representative in London, and President of the Irish Self-Determination League of Great Britain, arrived unexpectedly in Dublin yesterday morning. He saw Mr. de Valera, and had a long interview, but no meeting was called at the Mansion House. It is stated that Mr. O'Brien is acting in the capacity of courier for Sinn Fein, and the question is being asked: Is he taking back a reply to Mr. Lloyd George? So far, it is said, a reply has not been despatched.

MAIL CAR SERVICES RESUMED.

The mail car service between Roscommon and Ballygar, which has been suspended for some months past, was resumed on Saturday.

The mail car service between Carrick-on-Shannon and Drumkerin, which also served the districts of Keady and Ballyfarnon, will be resumed shortly.

STRANGE SCENE IN CORK.

MAN ROPED TO CHURCH RAILS.

Our Cork Correspondent states that a strange scene was witnessed in the neighbourhood of St. Francis's Roman Catholic Church, Liberty street, Cork, yesterday. A man was tied with a rope and padlocked to the outside of the church railings at noon. On his breast was a card, bearing, in large letters, the words—"Robber on Queenstown Railway line." A handkerchief was placed over his face, covering it from the forehead to the mouth, the lower portion of a reddish moustache being visible. The extraordinary spectacle was witnessed by thousands of people. At one o'clock a party of police arrived on the scene, and, undoing the man's bindings, removed him to the Bridewell.

THE COALFIELDS OF IRELAND.

A NEW SURVEY.

It is always a pleasant duty to acknowledge a service done to the country, and there can be no question that such a service has been rendered in the two volumes which are now published by the Commission of Inquiry into the Resources and Industries of Ireland. The coalfields of Ireland are a very vexed subject, on which hitherto very little information has been available in a form accessible to the public at large. So far as we have been able to trace, all the information hitherto scattered up and down scientific journals and geological memoirs is gathered together in this book in a very convenient and handy form. Added to it there is much work that appears to have been done for the first time. Both forms of research, whether on the field or in the library, are blended together in a clear and succinct record that deals in turn with every one of the coalfields of the country.

The procedure has been to begin with a general survey of every field in turn, coming then to a detailed statement of the various coals of the field, summarising work in past and present coalfields, with geological sections required by practical workers, and concluding with a statement of resources and an analysis of all available coals. The order unquestionably is a good one, and we have found in handling these volumes that it is always easy to place one's finger on the information that is required, field by field. Similarly the writing eschews unnecessarily technical language, geological or engineering.

We are not always in total agreement with the method adopted. It is, perhaps, for example, not very well known that in previous estimates of reserves a number of coal seams have been neglected as uneconomic, for one cause or another. For instance, out of four coals remaining in the Leinster Coalfield, only two are usually reckoned as "economic coals." The other two have been neglected as "uneconomic coals." In this book information is given with regard to all four, and the calculations for each find their place in the estimate of resources. We can see the advantages of this method, especially as these books state the difficulties with regard to the uneconomic coals with great frankness. The result unquestionably is that the public now has all the facts placed before it; and it is suggested in this Memoir that the result should be that inquiry should be opened as to the possible use of coals hitherto neglected.

There is much to be said for this method. With regard to the Munster coalfields, for instance, this Memoir alleges a case of neglect—neglect not only as to the place of these coalfields in an estimate of resources, but even deeper neglect as to field-work and provision of necessary information. An area of coal deposits covering not less that 640 square miles, and containing important coals of the Middle Measures, as well as coals of the Lower Measures, some of which run to a thickness of three feet, seems to be too important a field to be ruled altogether out of account. By restoring the Munster Coalfields to our attention, therefore, this Memoir has rendered a considerable service. Even according to the conjectural estimate of resources given in this book, it appears that there are not less than minimum resources amounting to 1,570,000,000 tons.

On the other hand, it must be remembered that this method might lead to unfortunate results in the hands of the hasty and unthoughtful; but the Memoir itself would not be responsible for such a result. The full facts are given here candidly and fairly. Nevertheless, they must be handled as candidly and fairly, and with the same frank regard for the truth of the position.

Perhaps, the most valuable work rendered in this Memoir is with regard to the concealed coalfields of the North of Ireland. The greater part of this is all new work, and the geological arguments in favour of the existence of these fields are set out with remarkable simplicity. None can fail to be struck by the vicissitudes in geological times that denuded Ireland of the greater part of the coal deposits laid over this land area, or to see at once why these deposits should have been preserved under the basalt plateau covering County Antrim and parts of the Counties Derry and Tyrone.

The first of the maps that occupy Volume II. gives a pictorial display of these arguments. On this particular map, for the first time, the position and general outlines of these concealed coalfields are clearly marked. With regard to three of them, the Larne Coalfield, the Ballymoney Coalfield, and the Portrush Coalfield, the arguments are purely geological. There are no exposed evidences of these fields apart from that argument. For the Lough Neagh Coalfield there are exposed evidences at Coalisland and at Annaghone. This Memoir has undertaken the bold course of refering both these little coalfields to the larger coalfield of which they are the exposed evidence.

Perhaps, one of the most striking pieces of originality is in one of the appendices where the Commission sets out the questions addressed to Mr. Ernest Williams, who was entrusted by the Ministry of Munitions with the Washing Bay bore-hole, and his answers to these questions. There is no information with regard to this bore-hole that is not thoroughly explored in these thirty-five questions and answers. This particular appendix is, however, not confined merely to the Lough Neagh Coalfield, and the bore-hole intended to prove that field. It deals also with the other concealed coalfields in the North-east of the country.

Mr. Williams is able to find himself, apparently, in entire accord with the arguments of the Commission in favour of the existence of this field; and in answer to direct questions put to him he even states the precise places where bore-holes should be sunk to prove them. His evidence places the prospect of future work on these fields on an entirely new level. It is to be hoped that these volumes will lead to practical work.

FAMILY ATTACKED AT INCHICORE.

On Saturday in the Southern Police Court, Dublin, before Sir Ernest Swifte, K.C., James English, Denis Brennan, Patrick Brennan, Esther Fennessy, Kate Keegan, and Bernard Fegan, all residents of Inchicore, were charged by John McNeill with having maliciously damaged his house and furniture.

Mr. Scott, solicitor, conducted the prosecution, and Mr. P. H. O'Brien defended Denis and Patrick Brennan.

John McNeill stated that at about half-past ten o'clock on Friday night a crowd, among whom were the prisoners, came to his house and threw a quantity of stones and bricks through a window. A pile of stones had been made up outside the door previously. He saw the Brennans firing stones off a bank. Damage amounting to between £4 and £5 was done to the window and the door was smashed. Some of the bricks injured the furniture, a table, a large picture, and a chair being broken, the damage done to these being about 30s. He could give no reason for the attack, except that they were Protestants. The crowd said that they would burn them out and send them back to Belfast, but he did not belong to Belfast. English tried to burst in the door. Earlier in the night his two boys were beaten.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Brien, witness denied that an opposing crowd had come up to beat young Brennan. He did not know that a crowd of roughs had attacked Brennan that evening.

Did one of the prisoners say that you were Protestants? Yes; the old woman repeated it, and young Brennan also said it. Brennan, senior, said, "Set fire to them." We are respectable Protestants who never interfered with one of them.

Miss Teresa McNeill corroborated the evidence of the previous witness, and said that the crowd addressed them as, "You Orange lot of ——, get out, and we will put you back to Belfast, where you came from." Mrs. Fennessy in particular used the offensive expression. All the prisoners threw stones.

The prisoners were remanded, Sir Ernest Swifte observing that the evidence pointed rather to riot and illegal assembly. It was a very curious way of observing the truce.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

WAR ON SLEEP.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Will some knowledgable person please say whether the abrogation of Curfew in our city implies the nullification of all rational control? I ask this because in my ill-fated thoroughfare—Lower Mount street—in which I have the misfortune to live, we have the spectacle of nightly riot and disorder ever since the military restriction was withdrawn. About the time when midnight strikes, a motley horde from the back streets arrive and take up positions under the electric light standards, and for two or three hours afterwards keep up a deafening pandemonium. Every possible means of making strident noises is skilfully employed. Raucous voices bawl out the choruses of some popular music hall songs; accordions and mouth-organs swell the chorus, and war-whoops and feminine shrieks come in intermittently as a sort of Wagnerian orchestration. It matters not to these people that a large private hospital is in the street, and Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital hard by. No one can get a wink of sleep while King Demos pursues his nightly revel. Even tempestuous weather does not prevent the assembly. In such cases the mob gathers in the abutting arch-ways, and follows its favourite pastime.

I do not pretend to know what body is in control of the city; but I appeal to whatever authority exists to have this abuse corrected. On Saturday night the noise did not cease until close upon 6 a.m.—Yours, etc.,

IRISH TOURIST TRAFFIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I was very glad to read the excellent article on the above subject in to-day's issue of the Irish Times. The County Wicklow is the Garden of Ireland; yet the exorbitant fares charged by the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway prevent the majority of people from visiting the beauty spots of the county. A visitor to Greystones has to pay nearly ten shillings for a return third to Rathdrum if he brings his bicycle. The consequence is, of course, that very few people go to these places. During the summer months there should be cheap fares from Dublin to Bray, Woodenbridge, and Shillelagh, and from station to station between these places. In Scotland and North Wales every inducement is given to tourists in the way of daily cheap fares. Why should these facilities be denied to the public on this side of the Channel?—Yours, etc.,

LARD—Cash steady, with prime Western 7½ and middle West 10 points up.

COFFEE and SUGAR—Markets closed.

COTTON opened steady, 3 to 7 points up, and scored more gains on the bullish visible supply figures, improved Wall street conditions, adverse private crop advices, and buying. Clements, Curtis, and Co. estimate the crop condition at 66.0, and the total crop, exclusive of linters, at 8,300,000 running bales. CHICAGO, SATURDAY.

WHEAT opened easy, 1⅛c. to ⅜c. down, and further receded on large receipts, slow export trading, and Armour interests selling; then rallied under small country offerings and shorts covering. Values again receded later owing to increased interior movement and selling by elevator people and commission houses; and the market closed irregular, 1c. up to ⅜c. down. Spot easy. No. 2 hard winter, spot, 122⅜; No. 3 hard winter, spot, 118⅜. July, 123; September, 123⅜; December, 126⅜.

CORN opened easy and ⅜c. up, but soon declined on the fall in wheat, favourable weather, and elevator interests selling; then rallied partially later on light country offerings, decreased interior receipts, and shorts covering, the market closing steady, 2c. down to ⅜c. up. No. 2 mixed, spot, 63¼; July, 62⅜; September, 60⅜; December, 60⅜.

OATS easy, ⅛c. to ⅜c. lower. July, 35¼; September, 38⅜; December, 41⅜.

PROVISIONS opened steady, and strengthened on sellers holding off, a fair cash demand, shorts covering, and moderate purchases by packers. Subsequently pork values were depressed by light liquidation, and the market closed irregular, with lard 7½ to 5 up, pork unchanged to 10 down, and ribs 12½ to 2½ points dearer. LIMERICK JUNCTION MEETING—SATURDAY.

SECOND DAY.

There was a heavy downpour of rain during the morning at Limerick Junction, which luckily cleared away just as the horses were going to the post for the first race. The remainder of the afternoon was fine and bright, but the damage as regards the attendance was done earlier in the day, the unfavourable morning keeping away many people, and the crowd was smaller than on Friday. The renewed rainfall further improved the going, and fields ruled of better strength than would have been the case had the drought continued. There was an unfortunate mishap in the opening hurdle race, by which Mr. Stafford Delmege had the bad luck to lose his useful mare, Parma Violet. This occurred about half a mile from home, when Parma Violet, who was running uncommonly well at the time, slipped before taking off at a hurdle, and, breaking her hind leg, was destroyed. Six horses were well backed for this race, Waving Queen and Knight of Greenane sharing favouritism, but both these found one too good in Padraig, who won in the easiest style imaginable. Padraig had up to this been regarded more as a steeplechaser, but he showed pace in this race, and his victory gave the layers a very welcome turn up. Black Lass failed badly to run up to expectations in the Junction Plate, and A.B.C., getting the better of Flying Star about a furlong from the end, won very comfortably. The well-bred Holy Fooks played the part of hare before hounds with his eight opponents in the Tipperary Plate, but though he won with ease his rider never relaxed his efforts to keep him going all through the race. Organa once more disappointed by her running in the Moderate Plate. Odds of 3 to 1 were laid on her chance, but she never flattered, and Gossip Shop, being in front for most of the way, easily wore H.R.H. down in the closing stages. Both steeplechase events furnished further surprises. Ballinahoun, the favourite for the Stewards' Plate, was one of the earliest beaten, and Diploma, though running well, wore herself down through faulty leaping. In the last half-mile Solus and Manister Rustle had the issue to themselves, and it was due in no small measure to J. Hogan's fine riding that the former scored by three-parts of a length. The winner is by Le Souvenir, out of Glencorrig's dam, and shapes like also turning into a very useful steeplechaser. The Coiner, with long odds laid on him for the Stayers' Plate, was galloping along in easy style when he fell two fences from home, and the race fell to the outsider, Uncle John, who led from start to finish. Details:—

The record ascent in the Alps this year has been that of Major P. B. Lindsell, a member of the Alpine Club, who at the age of sixty-five, actually climbed the Weisshorn, 14,800 feet altitude. No one of this age, whether guide or climber, has hitherto succeeded in ascending this peak—I doubt, indeed, whether anyone of this age has ever attempted it, says the Geneva Correspondent of the Westminster Gazette.

ALEXANDRA PARK MEETING—SATURDAY.

MISS MAJORITY WINS MUNICIPAL HANDICAP.

THE JOCKEYS' CHAMPIONSHIP.

For the second time within a few weeks, on a Saturday, Donoghue has arrived too late to fulfil an engagement in the opening race. In the Alexandra Welter he was to have ridden Count Palatine, but arrived four minutes after the regulation time, to find Strydom had weighed out in the colours for the horse. From Donoghue's point of view this was most unfortunate, for Count Palatine provided a very easy winning ride. However, compensation came later, for successes on Surety filly, Weal or Woe, and Mailly Mallet gave him an advantage during the afternoon of one in the jockeys' championship over Bullock, who rode two of the other four winners. The duel between these two very capable horsemen is being followed with no little interest. The cause of Donoghue's late arrival, as he subsequently explained to me, was that his car was held up some distance from the course. He got out and sprinted to the park, but his enterprise was unavailing.

Miss Majority had shown a partiality for the course at the last meeting, and she readily won the Municipal Handicap without an effort. It was, indeed, the feature of the afternoon's racing, but she was only carrying 1lb. more than on the occasion of her last success, and the class of the opposition was certainly no better. Consequently too much may easily be made of the performance. Still, there is no doubt about her being the most improved sprinter in training.

Credit was not given Mentality for having run so prominently behind Little Doon at the last meeting here. This was in the race in which Service Kit finished seventh, and his running in which was inquired into after he had won the Stewards' Cup at Goodwood. Mentality now came out, and, at a difference of 2lb., cleverly got the better of White Ant, who had gone on from Goodwood, and whose defeat had never been seriously considered by her connections.

One of the interested visitors to-day was Arthur Nightingall, who was the winner of the Grand National on three occasions. Nightingall recalled that it is just thirty-eight years since he won at Alexandra Park on Bonnie Prince Charlie, who represented a 100 to 1 chance. He beat the mount of Charles Wood, who rode more winners here than any other jockey.

MOTOR CYCLING.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT RELIABILITY TRIAL.

Owing to many of the roads in the counties of Cork and Kerry being still "trenched," the Dublin and District Motor Cycle Club was compelled to abandon the idea of holding the usual two days' reliability trial during the Bank holiday period, and, in lieu thereof, a one-day trial was held over a course in the County Dublin and County Wicklow, so as to avoid the char-a-banc traffic, the event was decided on Saturday. It attracted an entry of twenty-six, of whom all but one started, and, despite the severity of the course, only three of them failed to complete the journey of approximately 140 miles. Starting from Inchicore, the route ran along the western side of the County Wicklow mountains to Ballymore-Eustace, the mountains being crossed by Wicklow Gap to Glendalough. From the latter point the military road was followed by Drumgoff and Aughavanagh to Aughrim, and thence to Woodenbridge, where there was a stop for lunch. The afternoon journey included the ascent of Ballymacroe and Sally Gap from the Luggala side and the Devil's Elbow, near Glencullen, the trial finishing at Donnybrook, which the first of the competitors reached about six o'clock. The weather conditions during the day were variable, but for the most part they were bad, and amongst the mountains a great deal of rain was encountered. Two trophies were put up for competition in the trial, the Freeman Cup and the Walker trophy, and both were run under the same conditions. With so large a proportion of finishers, it is probable the result will be decided by the secret check taken at Rathcoole in the early stages of the trial. Those who completed the journey in time to secure hope of awards were:—

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

TYRE INVESTMENT TRUST.

The income of this company comes mainly from its holdings in the Dunlop Rubber (Far East), Company, Limited, and Dunlop Tyre and Rubber Goods Company, of Canada. In 1920 the combined turnover showed an increase of 31 per cent. over 1919, but the increased cost of manufacture and adverse exchanges reduced the ratio of profits. The directors, however, are informed (says the Stock Exchange Gazette) that cost of manufacture is now decreaisng in both spheres, and general trade is showing revival. The report contains a somewhat cryptic paragraph, which states that in 1920 considerable extensions were carried out in the works in the Far East and Canada, and the directors, after careful consideration, "decided to realise the investments which they had temporarily acquired," and to transfer to the two companies the capital so realised, together with the new capital recently subscribed. The loss on realisation (£50,585) and the whole of the balance of the preliminary and new issue expenses (£82,500) will be written off out of the share premium account, which has been created since the date of this balance sheet, leaving a net balance of £117,600 to share premium account. Revenue increased by £33,500, but management and other expenses increased from £18,147 to £28,945, while interest charges were £27,819 as compared with £43,957. The dividend of 150 per cent. on the Ordinary (2s.) shares was an interim payment, and although the balance forward is sufficient to cover a further distribution, the directors have decided to conserve the resources in view of the anxieties of the times. Loans and creditors (including reserve for income tax) total £239,577, against £373,494, and debtors and loans to subsidiary companies have risen from £165,186 to £435,701, while cash has declined from £163,764 to £11,780. The directors believe that the worst of the depression has passed, and regard the future with confidence.

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.

It is not generally realised that the decline in the value of money in the last eighteen months and the consequent appreciation in gilt-edged securities has automatically raised the value of Savings Certificates considerably (says Truth). From the worst of 1920 the 5 per cent. War Loan has risen from 81⅞ to over 88, and Consols from 43⅝ to 48¼. This means that the yield on the latter has fallen from £5 14s. to £5 3s. per cent., making the present net yield on Consols about £3 12s. per cent., allowing for income tax at 6s. in the £. During the period indicated Savings Certificates have remained on sale at 15s. 6d., and they are still procurable at that figure; thus affording an interest return equivalent to 5¼ per cent. free of income tax. The Government are borrowing on Treasury Bills fully 2 per cent. cheaper than at this time last year, but are borrowing on these Savings Certificates at the same attractive rate to the lender as before. Therefore, any investors who have not their full quota of Savings Certificates and are able to acquire them should do so while they are still to be had. They were undoubtedly the finest investment offered during the war period, and since then their attractions have been enhanced.

AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY IN UNITED STATES.

It appears from the "Guaranty Survey," of the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York, that a decline in the demand for automobiles, accompanied by numerous recessions in prices, is reported. The slackening of demand is affecting both truck and passenger car output. About one-third of the companies actively engaged in the production of passenger automobiles in the United States have revised prices downward since April. The recessions in prices hve been proportionately larger for the lower-priced cars than for those selling at higher prices. A reduction in the demand for automobile tyres, corresponding in a measure to the lessened demand for automobiles, has affected the activity of a number of rubber companies. In accordance with curtailment of production schedules, workmen have been paid off. Earlier in the year there was a considerable increase of business in the automobile and tyre industries, an increase which resulted in exaggerated expectations concerning the immediate future of these industries.

PROSPEROUS GERMAN CONDITIONS.

The representative of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York's International Trade Department in London quotes a statement from the Federation of British Industries that both the German Government and German industry have prepared a series of counter-measures against the economic sanctions of the Allies. These measures will include the granting of most extensive facilities to German exporters and the imposition of difficulties in the way of importation of goods from the Allies. Incidentally, the Government has further abolished or reduced export duties on a large number of products. A delegation of British business men who recently returned from a trip through Germany report their conviction that the German people are better clothed, better shod, and more plenteously fed than many of the Allied peoples. During a long journey from Cologne to Leipzig they reached the conclusion that not an inch of soil remained uncultivated, not a single sign of war was to be seen, but only an industrious and apparently prosperous population. The impression the delegation received was that Germany is industrially strong and economically sound, notwithstanding the depressed value of the mark, which they suggested may be kept at its present level for purely political reasons.

A NEGLECTED BANK SHARE.

Of late there has been a good demand for Overseas Bank shares, prices of which have risen considerably in consequence. A share which has been rather overlooked (says Truth) in the movement is that of the Bank of Victoria. The dividend for the year ended June 30th last has been raised from 7 per cent. to 9 per cent.; in addition, £75,000, against £50,000, is placed to reserve; £10,000, against £5,000, is allocated to bank premises, and £3,000, against nil, to officers' fund, while £35,845, against £22,040, is carried forward. The dividend calls for £21,200 more, and it looks as though the bank secured an increase in net profits of about £43,000 on the £149,440 shown for the year to June 30th, 1920. Owing to the date of the bank's fiscal year having been changed, there was no report to June 30th, 1919. but for the year 1918 the net profit was £129,981, for 1917 £111,332, and for 1916 £108,062. The expansion, therefore, has been uninterrupted. The issued capital is £1,061,250, in £10 ordinary, £5 paid, shares, and £416,760 in preference shares of £10 each, fully paid. The former are quoted about 4⅛, and allowing for the final dividend in the price the yield to a purchaser is fully 10 per cent. There would thus appear to be some scope for a levelling up of the price.

MEAT AND CATTLE IN ARGENTINA

According to the monthly review of business and trade conditions in South America just issued by the London and River Plate Bank, the Government of Argentina is exercising strict vigilance against the introduction of rinder pest, although no new cases have been reported during several weeks. As a precaution, a barge containing salted hides, on the way down from Asuncion, was turned back by the Argentine authorities, but, as yet, this plague has not visited Paraguay. The glutted state of the freezing deposits in England, and difficulties for shipping, etc., have caused the freezers to take little interest in the cattle offering, and prices which were already weaker, have fallen still further. Buyers for local consumption show interest for good fat animals. For inferior classes there is no demand. A successful dairy exhibition has been held, and some fine examples of milk-producing cows were shown. The Holstein-Frisian, Dutch-Frisian, British-Frisian, and Jersey cattle were the favourite breeds. This branch of farming has become very important of late years, and, with close attention, is giving very good results. Before 1914 cheese was principally imported from Europe, but that is not so now. It is possible to get nearly every class of cheese known, and it is made with such care that, for taste and appearance, it compares favourably with the imported. Of course, the production of butter is continually on the increase, as the following figures show:—

TRADE CONDITIONS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

The monthly report, supplied by the general managers of the Standard Bank of South Africa, regarding trade conditions in the Union, says that wholesale and retail trade continues quiet, although there is a slight improvement in country business, especially in native trade in Transkei. Stocks generally are sufficient, and indenting is limited, although some lines of Kaffir truck are short; also higher grade papers. Supplies of electrical goods, agricultural machinery, fencing material, and hardware are arriving from the Continent under British prices. The market for mining material is dull, but an improvement is expected, owing to the depletion of mine stocks. The building trade is inactive. The furniture trade is quiet; stocks of timber are ample, and prices are easier. Soft goods are quiet; retail prices are being cut in order to reduce stocks. The supplies of motor cars exceed demand. Supplies of footwear are ample, and some local factories are working on short time. Flour and rice are in good demand. There is some shortage of stocks, and prices are firmer. The wool market is easier, in sympathy with the London sales. On the Mohair market there is a fair inquiry for fine qualities and good lengths only. The ostrich feathers market shows a better tone; wings have improved 10 per cent., and other descriptions are firm. The wheat market is firmer at 31s. 9d. per bag of 200lb. The demand for maize for export continues at 10s. 3d. per bag of 200lb.; twos and sixes. Sugar production has suffered from the drought, and it is doubtful whether the output will equal that of last season.

COMPANY MEETING.

NOBEL INDUSTRIES, LIMITED.

EFFECTS OF COAL STOPPAGE.

The ordinary general meeting of Nobel Industries, Limited, was held on Friday at Winchester House, Old Broad street, London, Sir Harry McGowan, K.B.E. (Chairman and Managing Director), presiding.

The Chairman said that, while the profits earned had been approximately the same as for 1919, the directors recommended no dividend on the Ordinary Shares. This was due principally to the disastrous coal stoppage, accentuated by the unprecedented conditions obtaining. Most of the factories had had practically no output during the coal stoppage, and for a long period several were closed down entirely. The loss known to accrue from this cessation of business and the consequent uncertain prospects for the ensuing months of this year indicated the wisdom of their not paying a dividend on the Ordinary Shares. Had there been no coal stoppage by this time their stocks of the chief high-priced materials would have been worked off, and they would have been in a position to take advantage of the present lower costs of materials and to reduce selling prices.

Nothing had occurred to undermine the confidence of the directors in the basis upon which the original capitalisation was arranged, and it was proving to have been very conservative. In the year they had received as dividends rather more than £1,200,000 before providing for income tax, which, after deducting income tax and expenses, left £850,000. This by no means exhausted the profits of the constituent companies, which in a number of cases were considerably in excess of the sum distributed. After providing for the interest accrued on the new note issue up to December, 1920, they brought into the balance sheet £827,072, which with the carry-forward made a total of £1,057,461. Deducting the two half-yearly Preference dividends and making other provisions, they were able to carry forward £757,000.

COMPETITION AND COSTS.

As the result of two very strenuous years' work, to a large extent the objects of the merger had been attained. From now onwards considerable economies in working would gradually make their effects felt, thus enabling them to accomplish what they set out to achieve—viz., the strengthening of their industry by increased efficiency. By lower cost they would be enabled to meet foreign competition. Having reviewed the company's principal industrial investments, the Chairman said that, while manufacturers in this country had lost three or four months' profits by the coal deadlock, the experience would lead to the hope that there would be no repetition, and that a period of industrial peace might be looked for, establishing confidence and enabling manufacturers to make their plans longer ahead than had been the case during the past two years.

It would also give the buyer added security as to delivery, and thus help to re-establish confidence, which would be reflected in buyers now standing off coming again into the market. There was no doubt of our ability as a country to re-establish our position, but that could only be done by a saner appreciation of the necessity of efficiency, which meant greater production, low costs, lower selling prices, and consequently increased purchasing power.

As to the company's own business, in view of all the facts they must not be too optimistic as to the trading results for 1921, but the company was in a sound condition, and he was hopeful that all the economies introduced would offset to a certain extent the loss of revenue brought about by the coal troubles and general depression.

After a brief discussion the report and accounts were adopted.

POLO.

ALL-IRELAND CLUB.

At the Nine Acres on Saturday the ground was in capital order, and the small number of spectators witnessed a fast and keenly-contested game between two strong club sides, both of which were well mounted. The teams were called Wasps and Bees, and the former totalled 15 points against 14 on handicap. It was goal for goal until well into the fourth period, when Wasps obtained the lead for the first time at 4—3, and scoring two goals subsequently, rode off winners.

WASPS (6) v. BEES (3).

The Bees, who had Mr. "Johnston," an international player, in the No. 3 position, and Captain Daly at back, made the pace at the start, and scored twice per Mr. "Johnston" and Mr. Daly before Captain Waller hit through for Wasps. Early in the second chukkar Bees increased their lead, but the others were well worth a couple of goals, shots by Mr. Arnott and Captain Watt being luckily cleared from the posts. Wasps, however, assumed the upper hand in the third period, and goals by Captain Watt and Mr. Arnott left the sides on level terms at the half-way stage. The Wasps showed splendid form in the fourth chukkar, and following up a long drive by Mr. Arnott, Captain Watt easily hit through for the lead. Mr. J. Daly led an attack for Bees from the throw-in, but the ball was sent wide. Bees went near equalising in the fifth "eight," but all three forwards experienced the worst of luck with shots, and the score was unchanged at the bell. A hit-out by Wasps opened the last chukkar. Captain Watt carried play to the other end, and Captain Waller wound up the movement by scoring, and this was supplemented in the next minute by a fine goal from the stick of Mr. Arnott. Crisp hitting and hard riding characterised the play in the closing stages, but nothing further was scored, though on several occasions Mr. "Johnston" made good openings for this side. Teams:—

Wasps—Captain Waller, Mr. Maxwell Arnott, Captain S. A. Watt, and Mr. T. P. Tyrrell (back).

Bees—Mr. P. J. Leonard, Mr. J. Daly, Mr. "Johnston" and Captain B. Daly (back).

Umpire—Mr. W. V. Slocock.

To-day, at Park ground—Freebooters v. Wanderers, 4 o'clock.

PRODUCE REVIVAL CHECKED.

Our Liverpool Financial Correspondent writes:—The revival in tropical produce prices, following on a fairly substantial improvement in the volume of trade, as recorded last week, has, to some extent, been checked by the disinclination of consumers to encourage the upward movement, while they have been supported in this attitude by the general lethargy which obtains in a holiday period. Still, the turnover in palm oil is estimated to be fully 3,000 tons, though, in the later days of the week, the demand has considerably slackened, apart from strong inquiry from consumers for the cheaper qualities of oil, which have even, in some cases, reached a premium of £2 or £3 per ton over soft regulars. This, however, is merely a spasmodic movement, necessitated by the position of stocks in this country. Buyers are desirous of contenting themselves with meeting hand-to-mouth requirements at the moment, but they are showing some interest in distant positions, such as arrival for October-December, and they are prepared to pay a fair premium for business of this nature, but sellers show no disposition to trade so far ahead. There is, perhaps, rather more business passing in the export trade, though the exports for the month of June are given at less than 900 tons (of which U.S.A. took over 600 tons), making a total for the half-year of 8,300 tons, during which period imports amounted to practically 20,000 tons. Palm kernels, after their activity last week, are experiencing a period of dulness. Importers consider that the revival is fully due, and continue to ask full prices, but consumers feel disposed to hold back, and are confining themselves to offers by dealers at cut prices. At Hull, particularly, consumers seem to have fully satisfied their demands, though trade is still going on for September-October arrival, with quotations about 17s. 6d. per ton in excess of those ruling at Liverpool. London business is at a standstill.

The Continental demand has been well maintained, with business reported to Antwerp as high as £24, but the latest trading in afloat material is now no better than £23. The copra market has been subjected to some sharp movements, but general dulness has again supervened. Quotations, however, recovered from a sharp reaction, and, although trade is now very small, the prices are well maintained. F.M.S. Straits closed at nearly £35 for August-October shipment, with nearer periods exacting a premium of 10s. to 15s. per ton. Sun-dried sorts at Liverpool ruled from £28 to £29. In both nut oils and refined oils the market has been very quiet. In the former case quotations finished rather easier, but in refined oils further advances are still shown, and consumers are showing an inclination to stand aside for the time being. Soya bean oil has been a particularly good market, with prompt delivery difficult to obtain.

YACHTING.

ROYAL THAMES YACHT CLUB.

The concluding day's racing at Ryde opened on Saturday under favourable conditions, with moderate breezes from the south-west, freshening slightly through the day. All the yachts entered for the large handicap race were starters, and in the small handicap class three out of five of the yachts entered crossed the line. Details:—

HANDICAP for yachts exceeding 110 tons, T.M. Start, 11 a.m. Course—46½ miles. Entries:—

Britannia, cutter, 221 tons—H.M. the King (scr.).
Terpsichore, cutter, 189 tons—Mr. R. H. Lee (1 min. 23 secs.).
Nyria, cutter, 169 tons—Mrs. R. Workman (3 mins. 6 secs.).
White Heather II., cutter, 179 tons—Sir Charles Allom (3 mins. 6 secs.).

Nyria was disqualified through getting over the line before gunfire and not returning. Britannia finished first, but lost to White Heather II. on the time allowance by 1 min. 46 secs. Terpsichore was third.

BRITISH-AMERICAN CUP RACE.

The first match for this cup was sailed at Ryde under the direction of the Royal Thames Yacht Club. The competition consists of two teams of four a side, and is decided on points. A hard westerly breeze was blowing, and all the racers had reefs in their mainsail. The Americans were unlucky in losing two of their boats before the start. Shiela carried away her mast before the first gun, and Genie, who had trouble with her gear, did not start. The start was at 11.30 a.m., and the course about 15 sea miles. Entries:—

AMERICA.

Genie (Mr. Frank Paine, Mr. Francis Herreshoff, Mr. Nicholas Potter).
Montauk (Mr. W. A. W. Stewart, Mr. Winthorp W. Aldrich).
Grebe (Mr. John Sattonstall, Mr. E. Townsend Irvin, Mr. Richard De Boardman).
Shiela (Mr. Paul Hammond, Mr. Sherman Hoyt, Mr. F. Havemeyer).

ENGLAND

Victoria (Sir W. P. Burton, K.B.E.; Sir G. P. Collins, K.B.E.).
Polly (Mr. B. J. Gould).
Flya (Mr. E. S. Parker).
Jean (Major the Hon. Sir J. H. Ward).
Reserve boat—Freesia (Mr. A. Maudslay, C.B.E.; Mr. J. R. Westray).

Flya got the best of a straggling start, Polly was next on the line, followed by Grebe, Jean, Victoria, and Montauk. A beat to the first mark gave Grebe a lead that she retained to the finish. Flya was next to fetch, then Polly, and Montauk gave up before completing the round. They were stopped at the end of the round. On the result the British team are well ahead on points. The finishing times were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Grebe (winner)	1	5	0
Flya	1	8	45
Polly	1	9	9
Jean	1	15	48
Victoria	1	56	45

The next race will be sailed at Cowes to-day.

TO-DAY'S FIXTURES.

Wicklow Regatta.
R. Alfred Y.C.—Channel match for 25-footers to Holyhead (first gun 8.0 a.m.).
R. Alfred Y.C.—Channel match, a handicap for cruisers to Holyhead (first gun 8.30 a.m.).
Kingstown Regatta and Gala.

WICKLOW REGATTA.

Everything depends to-day upon the weather, and, as far as the sailing events are concerned, much upon the weather of the past twenty-four hours. Quite a number of yachts were going to Wicklow from Kingstown and Howth if the conditions became reasonable and if the weather gave them any inducement up to the last moment they would start. But the regatta fixture includes many events other than sailing, and there always is a good rowing and swimming programme, so that the day promises to be an interesting one.

DUBLIN BAY SAILING CLUB.

Owing to the heavy rain and the strong S.S.E. breeze on Saturday, and the lumpy sea that was running in the bay, and which prevented flag boats from being placed out in position, all the matches listed for the afternoon were abandoned, it being the first time such a thing happened this season.

ROYAL ALFRED YACHT CLUB.

It was just as well, as it happened, that the two Channel matches to Holyhead had been postponed beforehand, for Saturday was a day in which the conditions would have been miserable in the Irish Sea. Both races will be started this morning, the 25-footers (Fodhla and Punctilio) going at 8.5 a.m. and the cruisers (Kismet and Loyalty) at 8.25 a.m. Should Espanola arrive back from her cruise in time, it is expected that she will start in the cruisers' handicap.

KINGSTOWN REGATTA AND GALA.

In connection with the swimming gala, etc., which will come off this afternoon, two sailing events—viz., for Wags and for Seapoint boats, are included in the programme.

A Paris telegram, dated Friday, states:—A courtmartial sitting at Lille has condemned to ten years' imprisonment a student named Coursier Roubaix, who, during the war, was one of a large band of spies working for the Germans under the leadership of the "Blonde Lady."

CRICKET.

IRELAND v. SCOTLAND.

THE IRISH XI.

The Irish team to represent Ireland v. Scotland on the Leinster ground, Rathmines, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday is as appended. Up to the present there has been no change in the Scottish side, and much interest will be taken in the appearance of John Kerr, who scored 149 against the Australians in the colonials' recent match against Scotland. The match will begin each day at 12 o'clock, with lunch at 2 o'clock, and tea at 5 o'clock. The Irish XI. was officially announced on Saturday as follows:—

L. Bookman (R. and S.P.U.).
J. W. F. Crawford (Phœnix).
J. Ganly (St. Columba's and Leinster).
W. Harrington (Leinster).
J. G. Heaslip (Dublin University).
A. P. Kelly (Phœnix).
E. L. Kidd (Phœnix).
R. H. Lambert (Leinster).
S. D. Lambert (Leinster).
R. W. Power (Dublin University).
B. J. Ward (Leinster).

The Scottish team will be represented by the following:—

John Kerr (Greenock) (capt.).
G. L. D. Hole (Edinburgh Academicals).
C. G. Campbell (Edinburgh University).
A. Aikman (Galashiels).
D. A. Riddell (Greenock).
W. R. Cockburn (Kilburne).
A. E. Sellars (Carlton).
Andrew Fraser (Forfarshire).
D. A. Mackay (Clydesdale).
A. C. Cullen (Uddington).
A. W. Angus (Watsonians).

LEINSTER C.C. TOUR.

MATCH v. WESTON-SUPER-MARE.

Glorious weather prevailed at Weston-super-Mare on Saturday, when Leinster, continuing their tour, were beaten by the local team. Weston-super-Mare were dismissed in an hour and a half for 88 runs, Lambert taking five wickets for 37 runs, and Guise Brown three for 34. Leinster, however, went down badly before the bowling of Piper and Stratton, R. H. Lambert's 21 being the top score. Piper took seven wickets for 22 runs, and Stratton three for 33. Score:—

GLAMORGAN v. AUSTRALIA.

Ten thousand spectators saw Glamorgan give a remarkably good display of batting at Swansea on Saturday. It was not an auspicious opening, for the Welsh county lost T. Whittington, their most polished batsman, at 9, but Riches and Bates afterwards made a great stand, surviving until after lunch, and carrying the total to 162 before a separation was effected, Riches being first to leave. Then a rot set in, two more wickets falling without a change in the total. Spiller, generally one of Glamorgan's most dependable batsmen, failed to score, but Symonds hit with vigour, sending a ball from Macartney out of the field. There was a long delay, and, as the ball could not be found, another had to be obtained. Glamorgan lost their fifth and sixth wickets at 184, and were all out for 213, leaving the Australians about an hour for play. The Colonials opened with Bardsley and Collins, the attack being shared by Hacker and Nash. With 40 up the latter gave way to Creber. The Australians batted with caution, Bardsley being the slower of the two. Eventually Collins got caught at the wicket, and when play ceased the Australians had one wicket down for 50. Score:—

SUSSEX v. MIDDLESEX.

At Brighton, Middlesex lost Dales, Lee, and Hendry with only 85 on the board; but a firm stand by Hearne and his captain yielded the useful addition of 68 runs for the fourth wicket, when Mann was cleverly snapped by Gilligan. Before this, however, Lee ought to have been caught by Albert Relf off Gilligan before he had scored; but he survived to help Dales to send up the first half-century in as many minutes. Henderson's stay was not a long one, and Gilligan finished him by knocking his off stump out of the ground. There was nothing exceptionally exhilarating about the cricket, if one excepts the beautiful, clean driving of Hearne, chiefly to the off. Haig it was who sent up the second century at 20 minutes past 4, and from Gilligan's next delivery Hearne registered his individual century. Haig opened his shoulders to some purpose once he settled down, and helped Hearne to add 84 before being smartly run out. Later Hearne was caught, and then bowled, but a no-ball was signalled in each instance, but he fell legitimately to Bowley five minutes later. Score:—

KENT v. HAMPSHIRE.

Several hours' rain, the first for many months, had fallen in the Canterbury district on Friday, and exercised an effect on the pitch at the start of Saturday's cricket in the seventy-sixth festival, in which Middlesex, as last year, also participate. It will not, however, altogether excuse the poor batting display of Hants, who won the toss, and, with several players delayed in the journey from town, resolved to bat first. They had a strong side, but never looked like mastering the home attack. Disasters began with Kennedy's capture at slip in Woolley's third over, and that bowler and Freeman, who resumed after his mishap at Tunbridge Wells, literally swept the board. Eight wickets had fallen by lunch for 68, and three balls subsequently sufficed, without an addition to the score, for the conclusion of the venture. Woolley had six wickets for 28, and Freeman took four for 18. It was Hampshire's lowest total of the season. It was passed for the loss of Hardinge's wicket, the first 50 being forthcoming in half an hour, and thenceforward the Kent batsmen were engaged in driving home their vantage. G. Bryan displayed fine driving power, and at the tea interval claimed 73 of 134 for three, the venture being then 95 minutes old. Resuming, he and Hedges, who should have easily been caught at mid-off for 21, proceeded to pile up runs by forcible cricket. Bryan's fine innings came to an end at 309. He batted three hours and a quarter, and hit three 6's and twenty-six 4's. Score:—

YORKSHIRE v. LANCASHIRE.

There were about 16,000 spectators on Saturday, the first day of the return match between the rival Roses at Leeds. For the greater part of the day run-getting was slow. Lancashire, who have a full side, with the exception of Parkin, won the toss, and batted first on a good wicket. They found runs very difficult to obtain; but, though the Yorkshire bowling and fielding were consistently good, several of the batsmen seemed lacking alike in confidence and enterprise. The side completed their innings in three and a half hours for the very moderate total of 153, and of this an hour and 40 minutes' play after lunch produced 63 for the last seven wickets. Makepeace (39) and Sharp (28) both batted well before lunch. Sharp was dismissed without adding to his score afterwards, and only Barnes (19) and Kenyon (19) of the remaining batsmen reached double figures. Barnes was very deliberate, taking 95 minutes to score his 19 runs. Rhodes' bowling (3 for 24) was one of the features of the Yorkshire attack, the general quality of which, however, was distinctly good. Holmes (not out 77) gave Yorkshire a good start, 53 being scored before he lost Sutcliffe's assistance; but Oldroyd (not out 21) remained with him to the close. Yorkshire ended the day with a distinct advantage, seeing that, with nine wickets in hand, they are only 32 behind the Lancashire total. Score:—

Lancashire 153
Yorkshire (for one wkt.) 121

LEICESTERSHIRE v. NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

Pleasant weather prevailed at Leicester on Saturday, when some interesting cricket was seen by 5,000 spectators. Both sides were representative, the home eleven including Shipman (W.), who had not appeared for the county since 1914. Winning the toss, Leicestershire did not take very material advantage from their good fortune, for the side was out in the space of three hours and a half for a little over 200 runs. Northamptonshire lost Woolley at 14, and Hawtin was missed before opening his score. After 50 runs had been scored, in 35 minutes, three wickets fell for four runs; but the situation was improved by Thompson and Wells, so that at the close Northamptonshire, with six wickets in hand, were 90 runs behind. Score:—

Leicestershire 215
Northamptonshire (for 4 wkts.) 125

GLOUCESTERSHIRE v. SOMERSETSHIRE.

Parker, the Gloucestershire left-handed bowler, who met with such success in the last Test match at Manchester, had the satisfaction of taking all ten wickets in the Gloucestershire v. Somerset match at Bristol on Saturday. His performance was hailed with delight by the large crowd, many of whom, at the end of the innings, rushed on to the field, and wanted to carry him off in triumph, but he resisted their efforts. A collection for him on the ground realised £53. Somerset, who played a comparatively strong side, won the toss, and batted first. Johnson was caught when only three had been scored; but J. C. McBryan played a plucky innings, and scored 46 of 87 put on whilst he was in. Lowry (20), Young (34), and Considine (23) obtained useful scores. When the last pair were together the crowd expressed an anxiety that Parker should obtain the last wicket, and so equal a record, but the batsmen took advantage of every opportunity, and the result was that they added 36 runs. Somerset's innings closed for 212. Gloucestershire replied by scoring 92 for the loss of one wicket. Score:—

Somerset 212
Gloucestershire (for one wkt.) 92

DERBYSHIRE v. WARWICKSHIRE.

The feature of the Derbyshire innings in this match, which opened at Derby on Saturday, was the display of Leonard Oliver, who compiled 151, the highest individual score of the season for the Peak county. G. M. Buckston reappeared in their eleven, and C. J. Corbett made his first appearance of the season. They filled the places of G. Goodwin and Carter. W. J. V. Tomlinson was chosen to play, but split his hand for the second time on Wednesday, and probably will be lost to cricket for the rest of the season, Hutchinson filling this vacancy. The visitors' only change was Charlesworth for Santall. Score:—

Derbyshire 267
Warwickshire (for 2 wkts.) 47

WORCESTERSHIRE v. ESSEX.

Although Essex had a weak eleven at Worcester on Saturday they remained at the wicket practically the whole of the day, compiling the excellent score of 358. Winning the toss, the visitors had a useful send-off, Russell (78) and Loveday (50) putting on 126 for the first wicket. Dixon (48) also played forceful cricket, and with Freeman (66) added 78 in an hour for the third wicket, while another serviceable stand was made by Freeman and Douglas (33). Worcestershire had ten minutes' batting at the close. Score:—

Essex 358
Worcester (for 1 wicket) 4

LEINSTER v. CLONTARF.

With the majority of the best players on tour, Leinster had a very weak side out for their match with Clontarf on Saturday at Rathmines, and suffered a heavy defeat, the visitors winning by 162 runs, with five wickets to spare. Leinster batted first, but fared disastrously before the bowling of A. R. White and Ledwidge, and in forty-five minutes were dismissed for 34. White and Ledwidge bowled throughout, the former having the splendid analysis of 7 wickets for 21, while Ledwidge had 2 for 11 runs. Clontarf passed the home total without loss, Davenport and Montgomery putting on 56 for the opening partnership before the latter was smartly held by Bex behind the wicket for 20. Davenport hit freely for 69, collected in fifty minutes. He gave two easy chances, however, early in his innings, which included a six and 11 fours. Ledwidge played freely for 49 not out. The home side tried eight bowlers, Heather, with 2 wickets for 16, coming out best. Score:—

CIVIL SERVICE v. PHŒNIX.

Phœnix were short-handed on Saturday, playing nine men against Civil Service in their League match on the Service ground. The afternoon was very blustery when the visitors took the wicket, but the wind died down considerably later on. Phœnix made a very moderate batting display on an easy wicket, being dismissed for a total of 81. Kelly shaped nicely at the start, but was bowled by Smith when he had hit up 13, and the only really useful partnership was between Burtenshaw and Le Peton. The pair put on 51 for the fifth wicket, and then Burtenshaw, trying to pull Fitzsimons to leg, saw his stumps hit. He made 23 runs. As often happens with a broken partnership, the other batsman did not stay long behind, being dismissed four runs further on for a well-played 29. Taylor had two wickets for 24 runs, Smith 3 for 41, and Fitzsimons 3 for 15. The Civil Service fielding was smart and clean. With so moderate a score against them, the home club were fairly sure of the result.

Buxton and Connell opened the batting attractively, but with the score at 27 Buxton was held at extra cover. Following this came a grand partnership between Connell and Coffey, which lasted till Coffey was stumped at 102 for 17—a much more useful performance than the mere score indicates. Connell's batting, however, was both sound and exhilarating. He reached his century, hitting up 100 out of 138 in an hour. He gave a chance in the slips a couple of runs further on, and was run out at 107. It was a fine, free innings. He hit fifteen 4's, most of his scoring being on the leg side. With nine wickets down for 203 the bell sounded, leaving an easy win with Civil Service. Evers had four wickets for 32 runs, and Wylde two for 22. Score:—

R. AND S.P.U. v. DUKE OF CORNWALL'S L.I.

Railway Union gave a poor batting display at Park avenue on Saturday, and were defeated in a low-scoring match by 66 runs. The wicket was on the slow side, and the home club were without a couple of their usual team, but these were no excuses for such a break-down. The visitors, batting first, collected 107 in an hour and a half, five of the side getting double figures. L. Bookman secured five wickets for less than 8 runs each, and his brother three for 16. Browner (10) was the only home batsman to show any defence against Buller (5 for 18) and Ashton (4 for 11), who got the Railway men out in less than an hour for 41.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING.

DUBLIN TRAMWAYS SPORTS.

The grand stand at Lansdowne road was packed on Saturday for the annual sports in aid of the Employes' Provident Fund, and the enclosure generally presented an appearance reminiscent of old time athletic gatherings in the capital. The weather, which several times looked like breaking, fortunately held up fine, and the meeting was carried through under the happiest auspices. It was a lengthy and diversified programme, with the 220 yards championship of Leinster as the strongest attraction. It was in the fitness of things that it provided the best race of the day, Stafford getting the verdict by a foot over Worthington Eyre, who was running the stronger at the finish. F. Gasteen readily annexed the sprint, the margin in his favour in the final being two yards over M'Keag, the Trinity athlete, who has, by his enterprise and untiring exertions, done a great deal for athletics during the last couple of seasons. Last year J. Cassidy, of the Duncairn Harriers, won the half mile at this meeting, and on Saturday he repeated the performance. The "field" for the 440 yards was rather unwieldy, fourteen runners taking up their positions on the narrow track. A. Macauley, of the Ulsterville Harriers, was greatly fancied, but he was crowded out, and when he did get an opening it was too late, and he was beaten a yard and a half by A. Falkiner, of the Clonliffe Harriers, to whom he was conceding fifteen yards. Flying Officer Watson, who ran so well at the Dublin Command Championship Meeting in the open mile, placed the three miles to his credit, but the honours of the race went to B. Bingham, who, giving away 250 yards, was beaten only a few yards by the winner. T. J. Carroll made a welcome re-appearance in the high jump, and although obviously out of practice gave a capital display, clearing 5ft. 10ins., but he could not concede the handicap, and the event was won by a promising young jumper in Flying Officer Rogerson. The field events attracted much attention. M. O'Halloran was in good form with the shot, discus, and 56lb., which he won, and the long jump went to T. C. Goff. Details:—

100 Yards (Confined).—N. Neilan, Blackrock (7), 1; J. White, Dublin (5), 2; D. E. Cotter, Dublin (10), 3. Won by a yard; two yards. Time—11 secs.

Falkiner led from the start, but was challenged 150 yards from home by Macauley, who, however, failed to get up in a fine finish down the straight, and was beaten a yard and a half; same. Time—52 3-5 secs.

220 Yards Championship of Leinster—Heat Winners—B. McCormack (D.M.P., Clontarf); L. O. Verceuil (Dublin University), H. E. Eyre (Dublin University), M. J. Stafford (Donore). Final—Stafford, 1; Eyre, 2; McCormack, 3. Eyre came away best, but Stafford tackled him at the first corner and led the 'Varsity man three yards into the straight. Half-way down Eyre made his effort, but Stafford, running on strongly, broke the tape a foot to the good; a yard. Time—24 3-5 secs.

Throwing the Discus—M. O'Halloran (Clonliffe) (20ft.), 128ft. 10in., 1; P. J. Birmingham (D.M.P.) (10ft.), 122ft. 8in., 2; D. Nyon (D.M.P.) (20ft.), 116ft. 1in., 3. Seven competed.

Time—15 mins. 14 1-5 secs.

ARMY CHAMPIONSHIPS.

As the result of a remarkable performance by Lt. F. W. H. Nicholas at Aldershot on Saturday, the 1st Beds. and Herts. Regiment secured the Army unit championship honours at the annual Army Championship Meeting. He ran second in both the furlong and sprint to Lt. D. V. Black (Tank Batt.), who won the former event in 22 1-5 secs., and the latter in 10 1-5 secs., beating the record for the meeting by one-fifth of a second. He won the hurdles in 16 3-10 secs., and adding these successes to his previous day's records of a third, fourth place in the high jump, and third in the shot-putting, he literally carried his side to victory. Sergt. Slade (R.A.S.C.) retained his title in the mile championship, winning easily in 2 mins. 2 2-5 secs. Lieut. P. M. Pitt Austin (Staff Corps), with 22 ft. 10 in. carried off the long jump. Corpl. Slater (R.A.S.C.), the holder, accounted for the one mile in 4 mins. 37 3-5 secs., while Sergt. Slade scored another success by winning the 440 yards in 52 2-5 secs.

SWIMMING.

The 100 Yards Swimming Championship of England was decided at Cleethorpes on Saturday. There were five competitors—M. Van. Schelze (Brussels), S. C. L. Savage (Lloyds Bank), A. E. Dickens (Hammersmith), S. C. C. K. Baillie (Scotland), C. B. Baker (Coventry S.C.). In the final heat the Belgian, using a powerful crawl stroke, led throughout, and won by four yards from Baillie, Savage being third, and Dickens fourth. The winner's time was 57 3-5 secs. The holder, J. Stedman (Australia), did not defend his title.

A REVOLTING CRIME.

A Berlin message, dated Friday, states:—A crime of a particularly revolting nature is reported from Konigsburg. A lonely farmhouse near Strasburg, in West Prussia, was noticed to be on fire, and the local fire brigade was summoned with some difficulty. On breaking open the farmhouse the firemen discovered that burglars had ransacked the rooms. First, however, they had attacked the farmer and his wife with axes, and struck them down, and had then tarred their bodies and set fire to them, with a view to covering up the traces of their attack.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS IN DUBLIN.

IRISH REGISTRAR-GENERAL'S RETURNS.

The Irish Registrar-General's report for the week ending Saturday, July 23rd, 1921, states that in the Dublin Registration Area the births registered during the week amounted to 231—130 boys and 101 girls—and the deaths to 137—70 males and 67 females.

The deaths registered, omitting the deaths (numbering 12) of persons admitted into public institutions from localities outside the area, represent an annual rate of mortality of 15.4 per 1,000 of the population. Included in the 125 deaths appertaining to the area are one from diphtheria and 27 from diarrhœa and enteritis of children under two years. There were 10 deaths from pneumonia, comprising three from broncho-pneumonia and seven from pneumonia (type not distinguished).

Tuberculous disease caused 13 deaths (including 11 from pulmonary tuberculosis and two from tuberculosis of the spinal column). Seven deaths were caused by cancer, eight by organic diseases of the heart, and six by bronchitis. Of five deaths by violence registered last week, one was caused by a vehicle, one was caused by gunshot wounds returned as accidental, two were by homicide, and one was by suicide.

Among deaths of infants under one year old, one was due to simple meningitis, four to convulsions, one to broncho-pneumonia, two to pneumonia, 23 to diarrhœa and enteritis, two to premature birth, and six to congenital debility. Fifty-two of the deaths registered during the week appertaining to the area were those of children under five years of age, 42 being infants under one year, of whom eight were under one month old, and 26 deaths were those of persons aged 65 and upwards, of whom 22 were 70 years of age or over.

Of the 125 deaths recorded, 49 occurred in hospitals and other public institutions.

DIVORCE PETITION FAILS.

Before Mr. Justice Horridge, in the Divorce Court, London, on Saturday, Mr. William Henry Atkins, a confectioner, of Thames street, Kingston-on-Thames, petitioned for a divorce from his wife, Amy Atkins, on the ground of her alleged misconduct with Mr. Edmund John Taylor, who is now dead. There was no defence.

The petitioner said that he was married at Hastings in 1892, and he lived there with his wife, who was a professional vocalist. In 1910 they made the acquaintance of Taylor, a married man, who held some municipal position on the East Coast. In 1910 Mrs. Atkins said that she was going to Southend to sing for Taylor, and that she was going to stay with Taylor and his family there.

Subsequently witness obtained work at Kingston, and left his wife at Hastings, visiting her frequently. Taylor separated from his wife, and witness gave permission for him to stay with Mrs. Atkins, her children, and her father, at Hastings. Then Mrs. Atkins and her father and Taylor went to Ashford to run a picture palace, the father finding the money. Witness had no suspicion that anything was wrong. In 1915 Mrs. Atkins's father died, and witness asked his wife to return to him. She refused, and continued to live in the same house as Taylor. He asked her if there was anything wrong between her and Taylor, and she would not swear there was not. He stopped her allowance, and she returned all his letters torn up. He went down to see her, and she refused to see him. In October, 1917, Taylor died, making a will in favour of Mrs. Atkins instead of his wife.

Mr. Bucknill (for the petitioner)—Did you constantly endeavour to get your wife back? Yes, it was hard after living happily with her for twenty-three years to give her up without a struggle. I kept sending her presents and letters, but they were all returned.

Mrs. Emma Taylor, the widow of Taylor, said that until 1910 they lived happily. In July, 1910, her husband left her. She took restitution proceedings, but they were not proceeded with because her husband died. She frequently saw him and Mrs. Atkins out arm-in-arm.

Mr. Justice Horridge dismissed the petition on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence of adultery.

MARKET REPORTS.

GRAIN.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—This market will be closed on Monday and Tuesday next for the August holidays. C.i.f. parcels of "free" wheat were more firmly held on Manitobas, but winter offered at about 6d. per qr. decline. No. 1 Manitoba October-November quoted 72/6, No. 2 hard winter July-August 68/9, and Rosario-Santa Fe (62½lbs.) due next week 79/-, but no business transpired. Maize parcels about 3d. to 6d. per qr. easier. River Plate arrived quoted 44/6, afloat 44/-, July-August and August-September 42/9, American fresh shelled August 41/3, August-September 41/- per qr. WHEAT on the spot ruled inactive. MAIZE—Spot parcels of American mixed quiet and favouring buyers, and River Plate lower on more liberal arrivals, but values difficult to ascertain. FLOUR in only moderate request and unaltered. Stocks of wheat held by the Liverpool branch of the Royal Commission at Liverpool on July 29th were 66,037 qrs. Graded red wheat futures, in sympathy with Chicago, gave way 1½d. per cental, and closed quiet thereat. Sales five loads at 14/3½ for October delivery, and this price final value. Yellow River Plate maize options were adversely affected by Argentine cables and lack of support, closing quiet and 1d. under last night. Sales 15 loads at 9/3 to 9/2½ for September, with closing value 9/2½ per cental. Imports of Grain (cwts.):—To-day—Wheat, 32,480; flour, 1,270; maize, 8,000. This week—Wheat, 492,640; flour, 32,784; maize, 128,730; peas, 1,254. This year—Wheat, 7,207,114; flour, 898,238; maize, 2,602,988; peas, 112,316; beans, 116,031. Last year—Wheat, 13,234,099; flour, 542,505; maize, 2,256,270; peas, 111,769; beans, 165,024.

NEWCASTLE, Saturday.—Foreign wheat, 74/- to 90/-; English wheat, none offering; maize, 45/- to 48/-; Scotch oats, 40/- to 46/-; foreign oats, 36/- to 40/-; grinding barley, 45/- to 50/- per quarter; flour, 68/- per bag; bran, £9 per ton; boxings, £12 to £12 10/-.

CATTLE.

DONCASTER, Saturday.—The continued drought has entirely stopped trade in store cattle, and there was only a moderate supply of milch beasts, for which the inquiry was slow, prices varying considerably, and being from £40 to £55 per head. No sheep, and a small supply of pigs; trade dull; suckers cheaper, making 12/- to 25/- each; strong stores, £3 to £5 each.

NORWICH, Saturday.—Small supply of fat cattle, quality not being so good; trade firm, last week's rates being maintained. Fat sheep were in small supply, trade being similar to last week at 12d. to 16d. per lb., and fat lambs 17d. per lb. Fat pigs were also in small supply, and met an easier trade. Store cattle and sheep were not in sufficient supply to justify prices; while store pigs met an easier trade.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—This market will be closed on Monday (August Bank holiday). BACON—The holiday feeling in the market was more pronounced, but the steady tone continued in all departments, despite irregularity in value of live hogs and easiness in products consequent on Western receipts turning out larger than expected. Relative scarcity of long clears and Cumberlands caused these selections to be offered somewhat sparingly, while bellies, Wiltshires, and backs ruled quietly steady at late rates. HAMS firm at recent currencies, but buyers operate cautiously in both long and short cut. Shoulders steadily held, but little business doing. Canadian Wiltshires attracted little attention. Irish quiet, with increasing supplies, but offerings largely of heavy averages. Danish and Dutch quiet, with prices of latter still irregular. LARD on the spot is steady, despite lower c.i.f. quotations, offerings being made with more reserve, especially American refined. CHEESE continues to improve under the influence of higher c.i.f. rates from Canada, and prices are raised 2/- per cwt., being now 136/- to 138/- per cwt. New Zealand also about same price as Canadian. BUTTER steadily held, though buyers operate cautiously. EGGS firm and held for higher prices. Irish hen round about 24/- to 25/6 per 120. Imports of Provisions (cwts.):—To-day—Bacon, 1,672; hams, 175; lard, 686; cheese, 749. This week—Bacon, 12,243; hams, 3,096; lard, 31,719; pork, 171; cheese, 36,528; beef, 150; butter, 5,240. This year—Bacon, 230,239; hams, 45,240; lard, 633,572; pork, 7,276; cheese, 259,274; beef, 2,578; butter, 986,861. Last year—Bacon, 204,604; hams, 1,817; lard, 354,592; pork, 3,334; cheese, 307,425; beef, 3,369; butter, 277,363.

REFINED LARD "FUTURES"—LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—This market will be closed on Monday (August Bank holiday). The decline in Chicago had already been partly discounted here, and with sellers more reserved and a fair inquiry during the short session, prices improved, with slight fluctuations, eventually closing firm, with buyers at 3d. per cwt. over last night for both positions. Business comprised September at 90/9, 90/6, 90/9, and October 90/9 to 90/6 per cwt.

DUBLIN VEGETABLE Saturday.—Large supplies of stuff, and good selling market for week-end. Cabbage and peas very dear—in fact, everything except tomatoes made relatively high rates. Tomatoes, with liberal home supply and heavy dump of Dutch, hard to clear. Cauliflowers, 5/- to 6/- per dozen; seconds, 3/- to 3/6 and 3/9; cucumbers, 4/- to 7/- and 8/- per dozen; vegetable marrows, 3/- to 12/- and 16/- per dozen; rhubarb, 2/6 to 6/- and 7/6 per dozen bunches; carrots, 2/6 to 4/- ditto; tomatoes, 7d. to 9d. per lb.; peas, 4/6 to 6/- per float, etc., and 50/- to 55/- per bag; York cabbage, 44/- to 55/-, 65/-, 70/-, and extras up to 91/- per load; white turnips, 1/- to 1/6 and 2/- per bundle; Tripoli onions, 1/3 to 2/- ditto; Dutch, 15/- to 16/- and 17/- per bag; parsley, 1/3 to 2/- per tray; lettuce, 1/- to 2/6 and 3/- per dozen; celery, 6d. to 1/- per bunch; beet, 4d. to 6d.; thyme, 4d. to 6d. ditto.

DUBLIN FISH, Saturday.—Fairly good general supply of country and local fish came in this morning from hookers and trawls; 18 packages salmon, 20 chests lobsters, and about 25 boxes mackerel featured. Satisfactory all round trade and clearance. OILCAKES AND FEEDING STUFFS—LONDON, Saturday.—LINSEED CAKES—A steady demand was experienced and values remained steady. WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Holiday influences were manifest in most of the leading markets during the week, and, generally, trading totalled a light volume. Values in industrial lines remain strained, and tend to make business tedious. Manufacturers may, by enterprise and skill, soon overtake belated opportunities, but the foreigner is surely and steadily creeping in with specialities on the distributing markets. Two auction sales of Irish wool were held in Dublin on Wednesday. They were in every respect satisfactory, and put a better complexion on business and prices than was generally anticipated. Choice deep fleeces made 9d. to 10½d., and in special cases 11d. and 11½d. per lb.; mediums, 5d. to 8½d., and inferior 3d. to 4½d. per lb.
